This is an auction.

Everyone should have a positive experience at the auction so we have set up the rules with these goals in mind:

In an effort to allow all sellers an equally fair chance to have their items sold early in the auction and distributed throughout the auction we continue to strive to remove human error and preferences in the staging of the sale.

We strive to share information we have learned from experience to help the sellers bag, mark and bundle their items in ways that help them get the best prices.

Because we appreciate our volunteers we strive to help the volunteers by making the logistics of the auction easy to follow and employ.

We want to give buyers a general idea of when items will be coming up for sale allowing them to step out for a break or even run an errand.

The rules are not perfect but we feel at this time they are the most fair for all involved.

It is HIGHLY recommended that you bring an insulated container for your fish purchases.
