

American Classical Academy
St. Cloud, Florida
Teacher Candidate

American Classical Charter Academy is looking for K-6 Teachers for the 2019-20 school year. If you are selected for the interview process, you will be contacted soon as hiring is currently under way.

America's prosperity depends upon a certain type of education, one that views humans as more than workers in a 21st century global economy. A classical education aims to develop citizens with virtue and knowledge in order to preserve liberty and self-government like the American founders intended. ACCA Teachers must understand the difference between this type of education and modern pedagogy.

ACCA's Teachers will be responsible for the following:

- general classroom management
- knowledge of classical curriculum
- maintaining professional decorum
- implementing traditional teaching methods
- effective parent communications
- professional development guided by the Principal and CCMG
- willingness to teach in a countercultural environment

Preferred Teacher candidates will have a Professional Florida Teaching Certificate. Applicants with a bachelor's degree, especially with a concentration in the Liberal Arts, are encouraged to apply if a temporary Florida Teaching Certificate can be obtained before the school year begins. A classical education during these modern times is countercultural and challenging; therefore, courage and love of country are also required of ACCA Teachers.

The mission of American Classical Charter Academy is to develop within its students a foundation of virtue and knowledge by delivering a rigorous, classical, liberal arts education with a strong emphasis on the rights and duties of American citizenship.
