

We stay in our lane

At our core, we are real estate agents and we stay in our lane – nothing more, nothing less. KWSE agents consult our clients in any and all things real estate, but will never discuss services out of scope including wealth management, sports agency decisions, or any other topics unrelated to the specific real estate transaction. Rest assured, KWSE agents' ONLY focus is to find the best lease, purchase, or investment property requested by the referral source in their market.

During this process, it is the KWSE agent's fiduciary duty to find the most suitable and perfect property for their client, and if the agent determines any changes or adjustments are needed, they will report back to the referral source before discussing it with the client.
