

Native Purple Coneflower 'T.J.'s'

Echinacea purpurea

Blooming spring to fall, pinkish-purple coneflower is an outstanding perennial, cut flower, butterfly attractor & overall fantastic plant for the garden during our hot summers. The flower stalks can reach 1'- 2' tall. Coneflowers like sun to light shade, and good drainage. Their golden-brown seedheads remain on the flower stalk long after the petals fade and provide food for birds. This particular selection is grown exclusively at Treeseach Farms from seed originally collected by plantsman T. J. Marks, who then provided the seed to "plant people" Mike & Patsy Anderson. They provide us with the pure seed each year. This variety is more of hot pink color, & grows a bit shorter than the regular, paler purple native coneflower. It is also quite prolific in the garden, returning each year a stronger, more vigorous plant which will reseed and fill your garden with color.
