The Garvinea® series of gerbera daisies have been bred with characteristics that provide strong garden performance. They are cold hardy to USDA Hardiness Zone 7 and provide strong resistance against pests and diseases, as well as performing in hot summers. In the landscape, the plants grow to 18 inches across and 18 inches tall while they are blooming. One of this series' greatest attributes is it provides an extended bloom time, producing colorful large flowers from early spring until the first frost. It is not uncommon for a single plant to produce more than 100 flowers during the growing season. The new 'Sweet' series have bigger & bolder blooms up to 4" across. Good cut flower.
