

Ryusen Weeping Japanese Maple

Acer palmatum 'Ryusen' PP#18,501

A new, very strictly weeping palmate that looks like no other Japanese Maple! In a pot, the branches reach far beyond the bottom of the container, so in the ground the branching would be lovely on a slope or over the edge of water where the true length can be seen. A vigorous grower that is heat tolerant. Bright green summer foliage & yellow/orange/red fall color. Can reach 20' x 8' over many years. Moist, well-drained soil. Can tolerate quite a bit of sun. A little afternoon shade is probably best. Versatile – you could espalier it or let it decorate an arbor or arch.
