

African Hosta Drimiopsis maculata

A hosta look-alike from Africa that's tough enough to take our summers!
Each spring attractive fleshy green leaves emerge with translucent maroon spots. Tight clusters of bright white flower buds that open and turn a pale green form on stalks that stand 6"-8" above the clump of foliage. Multiplies easily to form a lush groundcover in full shade. Needs a well drained location. Also makes a good container plant.
