

Heidi Sheesley of TreeSearch Farms

Manson Peacock Ginger

Kaempferia pulchra mansonii

Outstanding landscape ginger shows basic feather pattern with hundreds of tiny silver flecks. The foliage patterns are their strongest in spring & they fade as the summer gets hotter. This is one of the most floriferous of all the Peacock Gingers with its rich purple flowers tucked in the center of the plants in heavy bloom cycles throughout the warm months. Shade. The most prolific reproducer of all the Peacock Gingers & the toughest. Moist, well-drained soil. Goes dormant in winter.