

Mexican Flame Vine

Senecio confuses

A star in the garden, Mexican Flame Vine blooms masses of fiery orange blooms spring through winter attracting butterflies galore! A fast growing, twining vine, Mexican Flame prefers full sun and lots of room to grow!

Its tendrils need an arbor, trellis or wire fence to wrap around. It can quickly cover 6'-8'+ in one season. Evergreen in mild winters, root hardy in more severe cold – it's a good idea to mulch the roots well with pine straw or pine bark before winter for extra protection.
