

Arizona Milkweed

Asclepias angustifolia

A truly superb garden plant – virtually unknown outside its native range in southern Arizona & adjacent Mexico. Narrow- leaves on upright stalks form a tight clump 2' x 2'. Blooms with clusters of flowers that emerge as blush pink buds, opening to white. Blooms May through October – at least. After one flush of flowers is complete, another flush begins. A monarch butterfly host & nectar plant.