

The time has come.

He has popped the question. There is an engagement ring sitting on your finger. You have experienced the three “T’s” of Wedding Wonder...

Tears.

Thrills.

...and Terrors of the unknown.

You are terrified because daylight is burning. Time’s a-wasting. There is a wedding to plan. There is no second to lose. You have 5 weeks to prepare for your big day, and counting.

Reality checks begin:

- * Choose wedding party
- * Enroll in bridal registry
- * Visit and reserve wedding and reception location
- * Buy a wedding dress (Shouldn’t this have been #1 on the list??)
- * Gulp...Is he opting for a white tux or the traditional black?
- * Your day will be potentially bad news if he does not remember to rent the geese for the waterfall show.

All of the above...Not checked! What is a bride to do?
