Stay informed: What Every Personal Injury Client Should Know This Month

At Larson Law, we believe that an informed client is an empowered client. Here are a few important reminders and tips to help you protect your rights and get the best possible outcome for your case.

1. Keep Your Medical Appointments

Your health is the top priority. Attending all scheduled doctor and therapy visits not only helps your recovery but also provides essential documentation that supports your claim. Missed appointments can raise questions with insurance adjusters about the severity of your injuries.

2. Communicate Changes

If there are any changes in your medical condition, treatment plan, work status, or contact information, please let us know right away. This helps us keep your case moving forward without delays.

3. Avoid Social Media Pitfalls

Insurance companies may monitor your social media profiles. A single post, photo, or comment could be taken out of context and used against you. When in doubt, don't post about your accident, injuries, or activities.

4. Keep Good Records

Hold onto medical bills, receipts for related expenses, and a simple diary of your pain levels or missed activities. These can be invaluable when negotiating a fair settlement.

5. Reach Out with Questions

No question is too small. We are here to guide you every step of the way. If you ever feel uncertain or just want an update on your case, please don't hesitate to reach out.

Thank You for Trusting Us!

We know that being involved in a personal injury case can be stressful. We're honored to stand by your side and fight for the compensation you deserve.

Stay safe and be well!

A scam-free summer starts with you!

Protect yourself by staying informed about the latest scam tactics so you can keep your personal information and your money safe. Do you know how to spot these common scams?

Capital One impersonation scam

Scammers may pose as a bank, like Capital One, to try and gain access to your account. They often use a fake caller ID that shows up as the bank and tell you there've been fraudulent transactions on your account. The scammer will have you make payments to reverse the fraud and protect the account. In a different version of the scam, the caller will ask for sensitive information that they can use to access your account and make fraudulent transactions.

Smishing scam

Smishing—a twist on email phishing using SMS—happens when scammers send text messages that appear to be from a trusted company in an attempt to steal your money and personal information. These messages can be convincing because they pose as well-known businesses, like a delivery service or toll payment system. The texts will urge you to click a link where you're prompted to share payment details or other personal information.

Social media deposit refund scam

Scammers will pose as artists on social media, flattering users and offering to buy their photos. They'll send a seemingly valid check and then ask victims to send back a portion of the funds for "supplies." Though the check appears to clear, it's fraudulent. By the time the bank discovers the fake check, the scammers already have the money sent by victims.

Protect yourself from scammers

Verify phone calls

If you receive a call and aren't sure if the company or person you're speaking with is legitimate, hang up. Search for a verified number on the company website. If someone calls claiming to be from your bank and you feel uncomfortable, hang up.

and call the number on the back of your card before providing any personal or financial information.

Beware of fraudulent investment opportunities

Question any appealing investment offers that guarantee huge returns. Before sending any money, look up the business at trustworthy resources online to verify if it's legitimate. Be especially wary if the investment requires you to invest using cryptocurrency.

Don't be pressured to pay with gift cards

Utility companies, banks, the IRS or any other government agency will never request payment in the form of a gift card. Don't share the number on the back of a gift card with anyone you don't know.

Beware of urgency

Scammers notoriously apply pressure by saying your account is compromised, claiming they'll cut off your services or threatening legal action. Take a pause and tell a trusted friend or family member about the situation before making any financial decisions.

Never send money to someone you have not met face-to-face

Beware of online friends who ask for money or offer investment opportunities, including scenarios involving cryptocurrency.

*Article from Capital One

Unlike many law firms, we want you to call us to talk about your case!
If it's been over 30 days we want to talk to you!
We need to hear from you!

- Please, keep us posted about your recovery, care and treatment.
- If you see a new doctor or get more x-rays or MRI's, let us know.
- If you get new Health insurance, please let us know.
- When the doctor says you are done treating, let us know.
- If you are frustrated at the lack of progress, let us know!

Firework Safety Tip

While fireworks are a fun tradition, they also cause thousands of injuries each year. If you plan to celebrate with fireworks, keep these safety tips in mind:

- ✓ Leave it to the pros. Enjoy public fireworks displays when possible — they're safer and more spectacular!
- ✓ Keep a safe distance. Never stand over fireworks when lighting them and back up immediately after they're lit.

✓ Supervise kids closely. Even sparklers can burn at 2,000°F — hot enough to cause serious burns.

✓ Have water ready. Keep a bucket of water or hose nearby in case of fire or malfunction.

Wishing you and your family a safe and happy 4th of July!

We are truly grateful for the trust you place in us to handle your personal injury needs.

Your referrals mean the world to us—they are the highest compliment we can receive.

If you know someone who could benefit from experienced legal support after an accident, we're here to help them get the care and compensation they deserve.

Rest assured, we'll treat them with the same dedication and respect we've shown you.

Thank you for your confidence in us!
