Beneath

Novel concept: A return to the Shaver Mystery stories of the 1950s. There are other races living beneath us in the Earth’s crust...and we have been trying to find them, dig passages to them, or fight them since WWI. There is a plethora of evidence. They are not the Grays. They are, as Palmer suggested, left over from other races from outer space left behind millions of years ago...but the Earth changes are bringing them up out of the depths as the crust becomes unstable. The battles for survival between us and them will soon be full blown.