

Division 1 Epilogue:

On the surface, I feel this division is beatable, and it's possible that we'll only see one playoff team come from here. I think Ed has the most well constructed roster and should be considered the front runner to come out. While I don't love their teams, Greg and Manzo have a lot of upside and if things break right injury wise, they'll be fine. The real wild card, here is Tommy. I don't love his team as much as I usually do, but he usually manages well in season. He'll most likely need things to break badly for either Greg or Manzo, but it's not impossible that he sneaks in once again as a Wild Card team.

How they'll finish:

1. Ed (Division Winner)
2. Greg (Misses playoffs)
3. Tommy (Misses playoffs)
4. Manzo (Misses playoffs)

Division 2 Epilogue:

Unfortunately, for me, I like this Division as a group. While no team including my own quite measures up to the Top 2 teams in Division 3, three of us are pretty solid. Much to a lot of people's dismay, I'll put myself out there as the front runner. I constructed my roster, completely, minus the TE which shouldn't be a problem is usually half of them suck, anyway. I like James' team right behind me and if his guys pop during the right weeks, he could easily win the division. I'm gonna take the cheese on a Brett rebound here as I like what he did with his team, plus he wasn't nearly as drunk as he usually gets at the draft.

Unfortunately for Tom, I think it will be a tough year. Then again, I say that a lot, and, come late December, he's usually still playing.

How they'll finish:

1. Stein (Two-seed first round bye)
2. James (Wildcard Winner)
3. Brett (Wildcard Winner)
4. Tom (Misses Playoffs)

Division 3 Epilogue:

I usually have a solid read on what division is the strongest, but this year it's an easy call. I see two Top 3 teams, here and a third that could compete if things break right. I could flip a coin between Gemma and Nick, but I'll lean Nick, as I think his team is a plus in 3 of the 4 position groups which is almost unheard of. I see it as a dog fight between Gemmas and him with Ferna landing somewhere just below the middle of the league due to a tough schedule. Unfortunately for Ray, I think it will be a tough task to stay out of the basement, but as I have been so eloquently reminded over the years.... What do I know?

How they'll finish:

1. Nick (Division Winner, 1-seed)
2. Gemma (Wildcard)
3. Ferna (Miss Playoffs)
4. Ray (Miss Playoffs)

As ridiculous as it is to review teams, playoff predictions are even sillier so please take this all with a grain of salt. I see Nick as the top overall team, so I'll give him the 1-seed and the bye. While I see Gemma as the second best overall team, they can't win the division if Nick wins it, so I am placing them as the 4-seed (best non division winning team). As for myself, I see my team as better than Ed which puts me at the 2-seed, leaving him as the last Division winner and the 3-seed. Rounding out the playoffs, I like James to slot behind me, but also Gemma, and Brett to grab the last wild card spot. In round 1, I see James as a victim for the second straight year of a high scoring affair that he's on the wrong side of. I see Brett and Ed scoring modestly, with Brett advancing as I love his overall depth in regard to his chances of finishing the season strong. In Round 2, Nick gets the tough draw as he's stuck with Gemma. This will be a dog fight, but in the end I like Nick's team a little more so I am taking him in this spot. The difference between them being at the QB/Flex spot. For Brett and me, I think it should be a lower scoring game, and I'll take myself here as my team is the more complete one, with top end talent at the QB positions, and suspensions at the RB and WR position behind me. For the Finals, it's Nick and me like the old days. Yes, I'll be reminded that I put myself here a lot, but quite frankly, I do finish here, a lot. Just to be clear, I think I am team #3 team at the moment, but the problem is that I feel I won't have to play any of the 4 best other teams until the Finals making my draw the easier one. I'll take Nick in this game and just to be clear, it's not just because it would be douchey to pick myself. I really feel Nick has the best overall team and to that end, I think it's his year. Thanks for reading everyone, I hope you enjoyed!

