SUMMARY: All game need an import permit. All wildlife is classified as either Class I, Class II, Class III, or Class IV for importation by the Department of Game and Fish. Class I are considered domestic and do not need an import permit. Class II are legal to import with a Nongame Import Permit (special one for pets). Class III are generally native species like game and are legal with an Import Permit and may have other applicable laws. Class IV may not be imported for pets.

Native reptiles and amphibians that are not threatened or endangered are legal to collect from the wild, but anyone who possesses more than the annual bag limit is considered to be a commercial collector and must have a special permit.

DISCLAIMERS:

* The laws listed above lists whether a species to legal to possess and import according to state laws and then any federally protected species with stricter regulations than the state. Be sure to review all federal laws as some ban certain species as pets or make it legal to possess a species but bans their interstate import in commerce or purchasing across state lines (you can still move with your animals across state lines).

*For states that do allow keeping wild-caught native species as pets, it is usually limited to game birds, game animals, furbearers, reptiles, amphibians and invertebrates. Such taking usually requires some type of hunting or fishing license in addition to any required captive wildlife permits. All laws must be followed, including daily bag and possession limits, seasons, size limits and location specific regulations.

* These guides are usually based on state fish & game laws, state agriculture and health import laws, and marine resource laws except when otherwise noted. Check laws for all requirements. Additional state laws may apply, including general animal control and care, livestock, and other health laws.

* Species lists vary on each state page depending on each state's law. While we try to include as many native vertebrate species as possible, we cannot guarantee that all species are covered above.
