

Dear Tired, Weary,
and Slightly Zombified Teacher

Congratulations! You've almost survived another school year, and boy, do you deserve a medal! It's May, and the end is in sight. You're tired; I bet you're considering hibernation until September rolls around again. Who wouldn't after nine months of juggling lesson plans, marking papers, and keeping teenage humans in check?

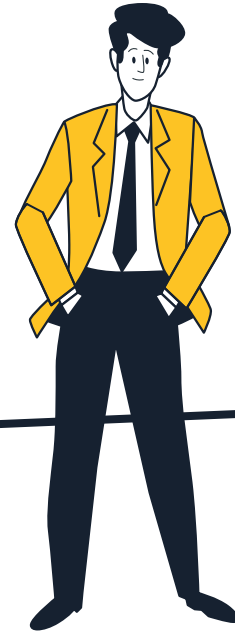

Your immune system? Yeah, it's probably waving the white flag by now, surrendering to the army of germs your classroom hosts like a never-ending party.

And sleep? What's that? With a brain buzzing like a beehive full of school-related worries and to-do lists, rest is just a distant dream.

Ah, the curriculum and special events cramming! It's like trying to fit an elephant into a Mini Cooper—impossible, but you give it your best shot anyway.

Patience running thin?
More like patience on life support.
Those discipline problems seem to have taken a permanent vacation in your classroom, leaving chaos in their wake.

Feeling like a failure?
Welcome to the club! But hey, chin up! You're not alone in this sinking ship of self-doubt .

But fear not,
exhausted
educator!

Well, maybe
not thriving,

You're not just surviving;
you're thriving!

but at least
surviving
with style.

So, as you drag yourself across the finish line of this academic marathon,

remember, you're not in this alone. God's got your back, (even if your coffee maker doesn't.)

And when all else fails,
just laugh!
Because sometimes,
humor is the best teacher,
even for teachers.

Wishing
you
strength,

laughter,

and a
well-
deserved

summer
break!

Lean on His everlasting arms

Have you not known? Have you not heard?

*The Lord is the everlasting God,
the Creator of the ends of the earth.
He does not faint or grow weary;
His understanding is unsearchable.
He gives power to the faint, and to him who has no might He increases strength.*

*Even youths shall faint and be weary,
and young men shall fall exhausted;
but they who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength;
they shall mount up with wings like eagles;
they shall run and not be weary;
they shall walk and not faint.*

(Isaiah

40:28-31)
