President's Message by Stephen Johnson (the top dog in camp)

August 2010

“Never put yourself in a position to have to apologize for someone else’s behavior”, a quote from my grandfather many years ago.

Unfortunately I find myself in this position now and feel I must apologize...as many are aware I have had an ongoing case with the Federal Government for 2 years...much has been discussed and on several occasions the prosecutor’s office has offered to drop all charges if I sign an agreement not to sue them. Yea right, like that’s ever going to happen. To make a rather long story longer ...we have entered the time in this dispute where games are being played to wear down the opposition...we were scheduled to go to trial on July 6th, postponed until July 13th, then postponed again until July 21st, next came August 4th... and finally yesterday we now are scheduled for Aug. 11th.

Do you see where I’m going with this...it is August the month where I (your friendly, except to lawyers, fearless leader) was scheduled to: #1 host the monthly outing to the upper Sacramento River area and #2 be the featured speaker at our monthly meeting on the 11th.

The Judge, (Oliver Wanger) the same one who dealt the Delta a slap in the face last month over a technicality, is allowing the Prosecutors office one last chance to come to grips with reality...drop all charges or get into court...in the mean time I have to quietly (hahahaha, me quiet) sit by and have my schedule screwed up...Sorry for any and all inconvenience this causes, I know how much the membership looks forward to listening to my half assed witty sense of humor at these meetings.

So my apologies for disappointing my friends or is it friend...lost count.

On a more interesting note...water is warming up and the carp in local waters are hungry, Kate and I have been cruising the shorelines of Woodard and Modesto Reservoirs in the evenings and doing quite nicely...several in the 10lb range. A couple of day trips to the Sierras to check out the “little fellas” (Brookies) in the 6” to 10” range and my new 3 weight is no longer a virgin.

Kate is not a happy camper right now...only reading going on is legal papers and court documents.

Hopefully this will be the end to all the madness and I can get back to tending my flock like a proper shepherd... until then, thanks for the understanding and the beer is on me as soon as I get through kicking the Federal Governments ass.

The sad eyed mutt and Steve

DFF MENTOR PROGRAM

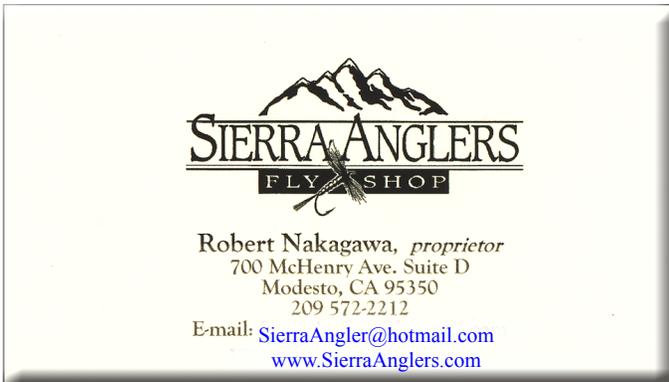

The Delta Fly Fishers Board of Directors, intent upon enhancing the existing Fishing Buddy Program, is proposing DFF adopt a Mentor Program which is proactive and broadly inclusive. The primary objective is, by sharing fly fishing skills and knowledge of existing DFF members with new members, this will assist new members in getting acquainted with existing members, with club activities and, generally speed the transition from new member to old friend.

The Board of Directors recognizes this will take considerable commitment from the existing membership and does encourage the active participation of current members. The following broad guidelines are thought to be necessary for this program.

- Every existing member willing to serve, as a Mentor will be asked to complete a skills/knowledge list that they will share with new members as requested. The Mentor Program Chairperson will maintain these documents.
- Every new member will be asked to complete a skills/knowledge request form, which the Mentor Program Chair will also maintain.
- The Mentor Program Chair will introduce any and all new members before the General Program begins and will make an effort to introduce the new members to DFF Officers and Board Members.
- Under consideration is the additional incentive for new members of some free raffle tickets.
- The Mentor Program Chair will follow up on matching a Mentor with a new member based on skills/knowledge sought and skills/knowledge available. The mentor and new member will work out a compatible schedule by which to transfer skills/knowledge. The Mentor Program Chair as needed can make reassignments.
- Examples of mentoring include such things as guiding a new member on local waters within a few months of assignment, accompany the new member to a local fly shop to assist with gear purchases, contact the new member a few days before each monthly meeting to remind the new member of the meeting and program, assisting with casting skills, how to tie useful knots and/or fly tying, sharing information regarding fly fishing destinations including basic travel tips and promoting new members to join DFF in its outings

Over time the Mentor Program may be extended to include existing members who want to learn new skills/knowledge.

Conservation

by Ron Forbes

As one becomes more involved with conservation issues regarding our fisheries and California's water issues, you become aware our ability to solve water problems or inability do so will define us as a State. It has done so in the past and will continue to do so in the future. Unfortunately, urban users and agribusiness interest continue with their "ME First" attitude. Those of us representing environmental or fisheries interest are in a position of the poor relative. We do, however, put up a good fight given our lack of resources.

This month has a good example of how we can fight the two special interest groups. In the ongoing Striper wars, the Coalition for a Sustainable Delta (CSD) ask Judge Oliver Wanger (US District Court for Eastern California) for a summary judgment against the California Department of Fish and Game (DFG) who's the defendant in the case. Interveners for DFG are California Sportfishing Protection Alliance (CSPA), Central Delta Water Agency (CDWA) and Northern California Council of the Federation of Fly Fishers (NCCFFF). DFG and its three interveners presented strong scientific evidence against CSD's case and Judge Wanger ruled against CSD. With a name like Coalition for a Sustainable Delta, one would have a tendency to think the organization is an environmentally responsible group. Nothing could be further from the truth. They are nothing more than a group of western San Joaquin Water users. The suit is another attempt to have the Stripers declared non-sport fish so that anyone can catch and keep as many fish as they want regardless size or numbers. CSD has no interest in the extinction of species such as Salmon, Steelhead or Stripers. They want the all sport fishing regulations for Stripers removed. Their point is that if you get rid of the fish and you will get rid of the fisherman. They feel if they get rid of the fish and those of us protecting the fish they will have unrestricted use of Delta water and no Environmental Impact Act laws to worry about. The fact that they will destroy one half million acres of prime Delta farmland and the local farmers with salt intrusion is of no concern to them. Judge Wanger has denied CSD's request for a summary judgment twice. However, CSD can still decide to continue the case. Their decision will be interesting.

In the last part of July, CSPA gave a press release regarding California Water Resources Control Board (CWRCB) release of a draft which said that more water flows are needed in the Delta. Increased flows are needed to protect the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta's water quality and to protect the fisheries. This report was required by the State nine years ago which told the Board to "develop new flow criteria for the Delta ecosystem necessary to protect public trust sources". The report should be finished in August of this year. Bill Jennings, Executive Director of CSPA is happy with CWRCB's draft. Jennings is pleased that this is the first time that the Board has given estimates on what flows are needed to sustain the estuary. Jennings is also pleased that the flow increase estimates are in line with those scientist, biologist and hydrologist who have been studying for the last thirty years. The draft also comments that the report is based on the "best scientific information" available. The recommendation will be sent to the Bay Delta Conservation Plan (BPCP) and the Delta Stewardship Council (DSC). After review, a comprehensive plan is to be developed which hopefully will protect the Delta ecosystem. We will keep on top of this report. Given the nature of the three major groups interested in the Delta the report is certain to cause controversy. CSPA's Bill Jennings along with CSPA's attorney Mike Jackson and their expert witnesses were a big part in the outcome of the draft. Another job well done, thank you CSPA.

And just when you thought things couldn't become odder in the ongoing water wars.....! As you will remember, for the last three years we have heard how the drought has brought the farmers of the south San Joaquin Valley to their knees. We heard how the fish and the people who protect them are the bad guys and are turning the south Valley to a dust bowl. Even Fox's Sean Hannity felt he had to take to the air decrying how the farmers were being ruined because of environmentalist love of a small transparent fish rather humans. And who can forget all those signs from Stockton south on 1-5 telling us that their lack of water has ruined the economy in Fresno and Bakersfield. Evidently, according House of Representatives member Nunes, the protection of Delta smelt, and not the recession, has caused huge economic problems in the Fresno area. The fact he lied before congress seems to have escaped Hannity. According to south Valley farmers and Senator Diane Feinstein (working for her corporate agribusiness billionaire friend), environmental laws needed to be suspended to save the farmers and provide more Delta water to the south valley.

Given the lack of water for the last three year doesn't it seem somewhat strange that the Westlands Water District has somehow has "found" 50,000-100,000 af of water to sell to the Metropolitan Water District for the 2010-2011 water year? Westland's WD ability to sell their subsidized water after three years of blatant misrepresentation is truly outrageous. Yet they continue to get away with it year after year. Westlands, the Coalition for a Sustainable Delta and others seem very concerned about removing stripers from the Delta because they are a non-native fish. Using their logic, why should the state and federal governments give subsidized water and subsidized cash for crops like cotton and pistachios given the fact they are nonnative crops in California?

For several weeks I have heard pro-radio messages for Prop.18, the Water Bond, on varies stations. The state legislature is still pushing Prop.18 even though some in the legislatures are trying to get the NGO section of the bill removed with the approval for both state houses. Now some of the legislature wants to postpone the Water Bill vote till 2012. We however, want the bill defeated, not postponed. The pork-laden Prop 18 needs to be voted down and the state needs to come up with a comprehensive water package that will address the real issues that need to be solved, not just pass a package that really doesn't address the problems. Today Restore the Delta sent out an ACTION ALERT on the bill. Go to: nowaterbond.com and see the site. They have a video which hopefully will be seen on TV. It's called: "Spit out the Water Bond and Start Over" and uses Hollywood stars such as David DeLuis, Justine Bateman, Kelly Williams and Anna Belkamp. It runs 60 seconds and is worth seeing. The video gets the message across.

Good going Restore the Delta and keep up the good work!

DFE August Membership Meeting

RIVERS OF A LOST COAST

August is traditionally set for the President's presentation. Unfortunately, there is a distinct possibility the Steve Johnson will not be able to attend August's meeting (see the President's message). Marty Kjelson is working on several possibilities for the meeting. If he can't get another speaker, at the last moment, we will be showing the video Rivers of a Lost Coast.

For those who haven't seen it yet, it is a wonderful movie documenting the rapid decline of our planet's fisheries. The devastated fisheries of Northern California are a microcosm of the planet's larger problems. Once a major salmon producing region, in 2008 state and federal agencies agreed upon a complete closure of ocean and recreational ocean fishing off the California coast.

While much attention has turned to the crippled commercial fishing industry, Rivers of a Lost Coast examines the situation through the unique, little-known history of California's north coast fly fishing community. From this rare perspective, our documentary provides a symbolic, melancholy reflection on a wild California that has been lost to the growing metropolis.

Rivers of a Lost Coast follows California's coastal fly fishing community through the rise and collapse of one of the world's most magical fisheries. To some, this is a story about time and place, about a California that was. To others, it is a story about who we are, what we need and where we are going.

A Club President's Letter

Submitted by Mike Adamson - President

The Backcountry Fly Fishing Association - Orlando

"I just cost that kid a perfect game". (Jim Joyce, MLB umpire)
"Nobody's perfect". (Armando Gallaraga, pitcher Detroit Tigers)

Last night I learned a lesson from a kid half my age as one of the most intriguing baseball stories of the year unfolded. You probably saw it too, a chance for a perfect game. Two outs in the bottom of the ninth, a ground ball to the first baseman with the pitcher covering the bag. Clearly the final out, but the ump calls him safe. It may go down as the worst call in the history of baseball.

I felt bad for the pitcher and the injustice of the situation. It's almost impossible to be perfect, but he was. And yet the chance to make history was stolen from him by someone else's imperfection. But I felt almost as bad for the ump that made the call. By the time he knew he was wrong he couldn't make it right. Both men probably had a sleepless night.

What I remember most this morning is not the game. What I remember is the study in integrity that followed as both pitcher and ump commented on the game. First the ump acknowledged his imperfection and owned up to it. Without trying to whitewash or make excuses he showed genuine remorse for something he couldn't change. There wasn't an ounce of "yes but" in his answers. He just "manned up" and I was impressed. His response will define him as much as the bad call.

The kid's response was even more impressive. While bearing the brunt of a decision that had to hurt deeply he offered a gracious, forgiving answer. "We're all human". "He feels worse than I do". "Nobody's perfect". "We all make mistakes". In the midst of what had to be deep disappointment at a wrong done to him by another person, he offered a chance to save face. Without overlooking the mistake he set the tone for the rest of the nation to respond with grace, understanding and forgiveness. That's a kid with a great head on his shoulders. That's a man who has the capacity to take the long view. He may be 25 years younger than me but he sure set an example for me last night.

So what does all this have to do with fly fishing? Our whole sport is a combination of the quest for perfection AND the reality of experiencing imperfection more often than not. Lots of things draw me to my fly rod and one of them is the difficulty in making the "perfect" cast. Yet, more times than I'd like to admit I've pushed the final forecast too hard in the heat of the moment or the last back cast slips through my fingers and the fly lands 180 degrees from where I intended. On one hand we keep honing the mechanics and shooting for the sky. On the other we learn to live, and to forgive, in the midst of lots of things going wrong.

The combination of pursuing perfection and being comfortable with and forgiving imperfection is flyfishing in a nutshell. And at least for me it's a great metaphor for life. Shoot for the sky. Own the mistakes. Go easy on yourself and on others. Make adjustments and keep shooting for the sky. Move on to the next fish, the next cast, and the next scenario.

So as I head out tomorrow morning with fly rod in hand I'll practice what was modeled for me last night in a baseball game. Pursue perfection unabashedly. And when my mistakes or more importantly, when someone else's mistakes cost me the opportunity for perfection...let reality and grace coexist.

August Outing

This August there was an out set for the Upper Sacramento River. Unfortunately, there is a distinct possibility the Steve Johnson, the Fish Miester, will not be able to attend August's outing (see the President's message). At this point in time (July 31) there are no plans for an August Outing. Should Steve become available and things change, check the Club's web site and/or wait for an e-mail to be sent to you. Sorry for the inconvenience.

Eastern Sierra Focus

By CJ Webb

This has been an extremely rough month for me, as I had to fire a gal and rehire another and training again. Also lightning hit our phone system from our house to Lee Vining and we were without a land line for 4 days.

This problem with the girls has been ongoing since the 15th of July, not giving me any time to fish or visit lakes and fish I should have something in a few days, but cannot promise anything. I will post, under the fly fishing report, on our web site www.virginialakesresort.com when I get a couple days next week to fish.....So sorry, but it has been a very trying month..... See you on the water! CJ (10 6)

Fish Factoids

by Herman Spalinger

The cutthroat trout is the second-most popular state fish. The largest line-class cutthroat ever taken was caught in Omak Lake, Washington, in 1993. It was caught on eight-pound line and weighed 18 pounds. The smallest cutthroat trout state record was landed at Pyramid Lake, Nevada, in 1984 and weighed 10 pounds 14 oz.. Also the largest cutthroat trout Nevada state record was caught in Lake Pyramid in 1977 by Ben Barlow, it weighed 23 pounds eight oz..

Here's another one:

In April, 2007, Alaska recorded one of the oldest fish caught from its waters. The female Shortraker rockfish was estimated to be as old as 115 years (based on analysis of its otolith, or ear bone). Caught by commercial fishermen trawling for pollock in 2,100 feet of water in the Bering Sea, the ancient 60 pound female was still reproductively active - its ovaries were filled with developing embryos. But this rockfish was just beginning her golden years. The oldest Shortraker ever caught in Alaskan waters was estimated to be an incredible 157 years old!
