MIYAGAN

MEET OUR TEAM

Siobhan Johnson- Chief Executive Officer

WIRADJURI / NGIYAMPAA

Miyagan is built on quality, care, and connection. The name Miyagan means family, and everything we do is shaped by our values as parents, partners, and community-focused leaders who understand the importance of getting things right.

As a proud Wiradjuri and Ngiyampaa woman, culture and family are central to who I am and how I lead. Those foundations guide how Miyagan operates – with integrity, accountability, and respect in every partnership we build. As CEO, I am responsible for strategic direction, client partnerships, and operational oversight across sourcing, design, production, and delivery. With my experience across health, community, and corporate environments, I understand the importance of reliable service, clear communication, compliance, and high-quality products that meet industry standards.

We focus on doing things properly. From concept through to fulfilment, our approach is structured, transparent, and efficient – ensuring our clients receive dependable outcomes without unnecessary complexity.

Miyagan reflects my role as a mother, partner, and leader. Family drives our purpose, and that value shapes how we support our clients and the communities we work alongside. We are committed to creating culturally safe partnerships, meaningful opportunities, and pathways that contribute to long-term wellbeing through sport, movement, and connection.

What sets Miyagan apart is our ability to combine professionalism with genuine care. As a family-run, Aboriginal-owned business, we are personally invested in the standard of our work and the experience our clients have working with us. We take pride in what we deliver and the legacy we are building for the next generation.

Will Middleton- Director

WONGKUMARA

I am a proud Wongkumara man and a proud family man. Family is the foundation of my values and the standard I bring to both my leadership and our business.

My background spans construction, mining, and large-scale project environments where safety, compliance, quality assurance, and delivery timelines are critical. Working across complex operational settings has given me a strong understanding of procurement requirements, contractor expectations, and the importance of reliable, high-quality supply within demanding industries.

This experience aligns closely with Miyagan's commitment to delivering industry-ready apparel and PPE that meets professional and operational standards. I understand firsthand what organisations require – durability, functionality, compliance, and consistency – and I ensure our products reflect those expectations.

We carry a cultural responsibility to create a better future for our children through hard work, dedication, and visible leadership. Our children can't be what they can't see. Representation matters – in workplaces, in leadership, and in the way culture is respected and embedded in professional environments.

As Director, I focus on building genuine, long-term partnerships across corporate, mining, construction, and infrastructure sectors while ensuring cultural integrity remains central to everything we produce. Our vision is to see Miyagan represented across workplaces, sporting teams, and communities – worn with pride, professionalism, and purpose.

Wes Middleton- Director

WONGKUMARA

As a proud Wongkumara man, my journey began through sport, health, and fitness, grounded in a strong belief that movement and wellbeing are essential for strong individuals and strong communities.

Growing up playing rugby league, I witnessed firsthand the power of sport to build confidence, discipline, connection, and pride. It reinforced the importance of representation – ensuring culture is reflected not only in community spaces, but in professional and industry environments.

My experience extends across mining operations, large-scale infrastructure projects, and culturally sensitive heritage engagement work. These roles have strengthened my understanding of operational standards, stakeholder engagement, and the importance of building trusted relationships across industry and community.

Family means everything to me. It shapes my leadership, my standards, and the way I approach business. That foundation guides how I build partnerships – with integrity, accountability, and long-term commitment.

As Director, I lead strategic partnerships, business development, and client engagement across corporate, construction, mining, and sporting sectors. My focus is on developing strong, sustainable relationships that balance commercial professionalism with cultural strength.

We create opportunities through empowerment, leadership, and connection – building sustainable pathways for individuals and communities.
