Xavier freshmen will be hosts with Mr. Gerald W. Barry of Chicago, as General Chairman. Assisting with arrangements are Messrs. Robert Burns, Cincinnati; Don Olds, music; James Church, Arkansas, refreshments, and Robert G. Tepmeier, Cincinnati, invitations.

The Xavier Masque Society will present their annual production, "Whispering In The Dark," Friday evening, April 17, in Wilson Auditorium. Theater parties are to be formed by Xavier undergraduates and alumni.

The Easter ball is planned for a date in May. The Chi Club has planned the evening of April 24 for a traditional spring concert-dance.

TALARIA.

Talaria, Cincinnati exponent of the art of poetry, begins its seventh year with the spring issue just off press. On the cover, reproduced from The Enquirer, a Caroline Williams drawing of the famous old St. Joseph's Cathedral at Bardstown, Ky., reminds a harassed world of the enduring values interwoven in the Easter season, and is a poem in itself.

The title page poem, "Falcons Before the Noon," by Charles B. Howe, states irrefutable fact in characteristic fashion:

"On the dais rim he is clear pencil
And his wings are as sharp as knives
And his movements skill is not
The tongue of the chameleon."

Features of this daisy, the troubadours continue to sing and the poems in this twenty-fifth issue of the magazine are as diversified as these titles indicate: "At a Rodeo Show—the King Vultures," "Mother's Daughter Dialogue," "Easter Lily Motet," "Empty Are Our Wars Loved," reflecting the trend of the daily news headlines, poems are titled "Military Wedding," "Battle With Mars," "War at Easter," "Bombed Churches."

Since Talaria's inception in 1936, the editors, R. Y. Williams and Annette Patton Worrell, have endeavored to make the magazine international in scope and a number of the most outstanding contemporary writers have contributed to its pages. Notable in this issue, a poem by David Morton. Other poets appearing in this issue include Mamie C. Knepper, Mary White Slater, Blanche Elliott, Edris Armfield Wolf, E. K. Olson, Grace Long, Carrie Biggs, Grace D. Leister, Virginia Moran Evans, and Gladys McKee.

Cora Smith Gould, New York, continues her favor to Talaria by offering $25 for the best poem published in the magazine. The individual management and critical matter of the highly acclaimed book, "Glass Flowers," judged Talaria's 1941 poems for the Cora Smith Gould prize. He gives the award to Howard Shurtleff, leader of the Springfield, Mass., Poetry Society, for his poem, "There Is No Forever," in the autumn issue.

Florence Goff Schwarz, Cincinnati, whose recent books, "Life's Overtones," is gaining wide favor with critics and readers, has made her choice of poems in Talaria's 1941 issues to Louis J. Sanker, Cincinnati, for his poem, "Song On the Anvil," in the summer number.

The Mabel Goode Frantz prize ($10) for the best sonnet in 1941 goes to Edith Ogden, California, for "Captain's Wife," in the autumn issue. The sonnets were judged by Loring Eugene Williams and Alice Crane Williams, editors of Amerson Wayne.

Mary Hansen awarded her book prize to Elva Thorin, California, for the poem, "Young Olaf's Bride," in the winter issue.

Edna Hamilton offers a copy of Donna Harkener's "Weather Vane" to the author of the poem in the spring issue that Mrs. Hamilton finds most interesting.

Julie Caroline O'Hara offers a copy of her recent book, "Alfa Memoriam," for her choice of poems in this issue.

Samuel Schleich offers a copy of his book, "Grains That the Hoarses Lost," to the author of best poem in this number, Loring Eugene Williams, Cleveland, to be the judge.

Bernice Williams Foley contributes a review of "Shadows on the Down," by Alfred Noyes, English poet, who visited Cincinnati recently, and Talaria's guest of honor. There are other reviews by Janice Schoolcraft, President of the Writers' League of Greater Cincinnati, Teresa Nesmay Webb, columnist for the Columbus Dispatch and Clara Hyde, Cincinnati correspondent for the Rik Office and Film Daily. There is also mention of the volume, "Observation Car," by Ruth Lyon, which won the 1939 annual award of the Ohio Poetry Society. The column, "By J. A. M." which contains notes of poems and their writers' achievements, reveals that J. M. of the column (Dr. C. M. Mutchler of the University of Cincinnati, whose pen name is Martin Dibble) has been appointed by the Governor of the Kentucky Board of Men of Letters of Brazil, for the northern half of the new world. So poetry takes its place with other mediums in consolidating the relationship between the Americas.

BURNS OWN WAR BONDS.

Ellensburg, Wash.—(AP)—This war stamp buyer wanted to go "all out" in aiding the war effort. He didn't want the government to pay him back anything. So he bought $18.75 worth of stamps, pasted them in a book, and then gave them to the war fund. Post office officials declined to give his name.

NEWS SOURCE ON SPOT.

Alvin, Ill.—(AP)—Mrs. John Alsup, a telephone subscriber up a flight, was badly battered up a tornado, wrote to her editor: "Official stationery blows away. Setta more."

ON TOP OF THE WORLD Tomorrow
TAKE PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA Tonight
WANT to wake up in the A. M. feeling "all set"—instead of "all in"? Then don't let your stomach go sour during the night because of over-indulgence. Give that excessive acidity the one-two action of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does more than merely neutralize the excess acids—it finishes the job. It acts as a very gentle laxative—
ONE-TWO ACTION
1 NEUTRALIZES EXCESS ACIDITY. Just a spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does it almost quicker than it takes to tell. Relief among the first symptoms of sour stomach acids known. Relieves that uneasy feeling of discomfort almost immediately.
2 ACTS AS MILD LAXATIVE. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does not get the system and leave you feeling "all wrung out." Take it when you go to bed and you'll be set to go with satisfactory regularity. Many physicians use it for this purpose. Get it from them. There is an honor until imitators.
pounces a mild yet thorough elimination. An ideal laxative-antacid!
The next time you eat too rich food or some sour drink more than usual take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at bedtime and wake up feeling on top of the world. Read the directions on the Milk of Magnesia package and take only as directed above or as prescribed by your physician.
