

Alicia Tappen is the Founder & CEO of Tappan Consulting, Inc. She is currently pursuing her PhD. in Forensic Psychology Crisis Management. She has extensive work within the following: trauma, co-morbidity of depression, anxiety, cultural competency, international psychology, trauma informed care, commercial sexual exploitation of children (CSEC) and Human Trafficking.

In 2019, Florida's Attorney General, Ashley Moody, recognized Alicia as Survivor of the Year for her efforts on building capacity for CSEC awareness & education.

Alicia is an aspiring author with a survivor guide series to be released in 2023. As a survivor leader and advocate, her passion for acceleration of anti-human trafficking efforts has led Alicia to collaborate with education systems, medical providers, clinicians, law enforcement and first responders along with community involvement for mentoring, education, training, and awareness.

Alicia Tappen has presented many training programs on the national and state level, and has appeared on numerous news reports, articles, and podcasts. From victim to survivor and advocate to professional, Alicia is a public speaker, grant writer, retreat host.

She resides with her husband and three sons in Florida.