Life and work experience enhance the depth of Karen Schoen's understanding of education and its effect on our students, economy, and country. Schoen's focus, as an educator, is connecting the dots, writing and sharing experiences as they relate to current culture and policy. Her business experience in marketing opens the door to multiple industries like telecommunication, insurance, real estate, mortgages, financial and fashion, from Wall Street to Main Street.

Karen Schoen: "Everything is connected. Nothing is random. Everything has a plan. All plans are based on lies. I believe that applying knowledge is power. You can be a champion or a victim; you can't be both. Ask yourself: Is America worth saving? If yes, then what will you do to help save the republic? Doing nothing is affirmation."
