Mhy Stage?

Do staged homes sell faster?

The short answer is yes. Conditions have started to moderate from the frantic seller's market Canada has been experiencing since the start of the pandemic, largely due to rising interest rates. With homes taking longer to sell and buyers having more time to shop the market, sellers may have to step up their game to win the attention of prospective buyers. According to a study by the Real Estate Staging Association, staged homes spend 73 per cent less time on the market than their un-staged counterparts.

Do staged homes get a higher price?

Real Estate Staging Association study revealed that 85 per cent of homes analyzed sold for five per cent to 25 per cent above listing price. The answer to this question isn't always black and white, as the final selling price can depend on a number of factors, including buyer demand, competition and the condition of the property. With all else being equal, a staged home is more likely to leave buyers with a better impression than one that hasn't been staged, with the potential to fetch higher offers.

Is home staging tax deductable?

Yes. The CRA regards staging as an expense to make a property more sellable. LifeStyled Decor Co. is a registered, insured staging company and we provide all necessary receipts.
