Michael Preston is the Volunteer Events Coordinator for Alliance League Matching Services, Inc. (ALMS), leading beach cleanups, environmental conservation efforts, and habitat maintenance initiatives. His passion lies in protecting ecosystems and ensuring that natural habitats remain viable for the wildlife that depends on them.

As a volunteer himself, Michael enjoys teaching about animals and the critical balance of their habitats, emphasizing the importance of conservation and responsible stewardship. Whether working with volunteers, engaging with local communities, or organizing large-scale environmental efforts, he is dedicated to hands-on action that makes a lasting impact.

Beyond his environmental work, Michael is committed to personal growth and physical fitness. He enjoys working out and has recently started training in Jiu-Jitsu, embracing both the discipline and challenge it brings. His dedication to strength, resilience, and education reflects his drive to lead by example, inspiring others to take an active role in preserving the world around them. He believes that his Creator would want us to be good stewards of our environment and treat one another and animals with compassion and concern.
