Enrich your life with marine-inspired art

Sometimes it can be tricky finding the perfect gift for someone, especially when it seems they have everything. So why not go for something totally unique: a one-off marine-inspired artwork from She Shell Art By Miffy.

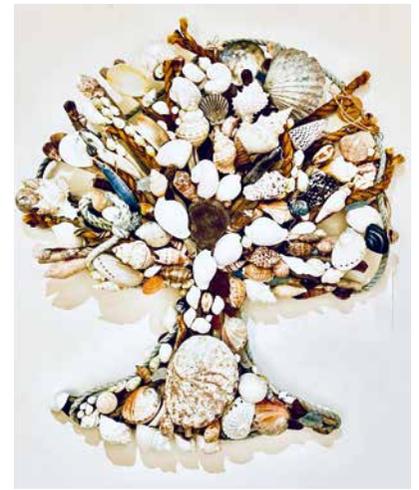

This driftwood tree of life wall artwork is part of Mount Martha artist Miffy Pittaway's personal collection and took her more than two months to meticulously and methodically handcraft. The intricate design has been decorated with 40-year-old seashells collected from Victorian beaches and includes fishing lures that Miffy found washed ashore. None of the shells she uses come from live, critically endangered, threatened or exotic species.

You can find out more about this evocative piece on the She Shell Art website; if you would like to see it up close and personal before you buy, give Miffy a call on 0400 178 635 or send her an email and she'll be only too happy to arrange a private viewing.

So whether you're looking for a special gift for a special person or wanting to bring the seaside into your home to create a coastal vibe, check out Miffy's stunning creations at She Shell Art.

Acclaimed pianist to perform in Mornington

Peninsula Music Society invites you to enjoy a wonderful Sunday afternoon concert with pianist Amir Farid on August 6 at 2.30pm at the Peninsula Community Theatre, Mornington.

Amir is a New York-based Iranian-Australian solo pianist, associate artist and chamber musician. He has performed concerti with the major Australian orchestras and his numerous recordings are heard frequently on radio stations throughout Australia and internationally.

Amir has also performed many times for the Peninsula Music Society both as a soloist and as pianist with the Benaud Trio, and his passionate and sensitive style is always entrancing.

This concert will feature works by Schubert, Kerry and Schumann. Tickets: adult $55, senior/pensioner $50, under-30s $25, school students free. For further information and bookings, go to <https://pmsmusic.asn.au>
