

ELMALIK ACADEMY

ACADEMIC WRITING & RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

DR. ABRAR BAKRY ELMALIK

DEFINITION

- A way to address topic based research question of interest to any one who seeking factually based, objectively-presented information on a particular topic.
- Technical +/- the language issues.

THE AIM

New knowledge presentation
through:

- revision of the current known,
- and foundation for the authors new perspectives.

GENRE

- Theses/ dissertation
- Books
- Abstracts
- Journal articles: case reports
... etc
- Grant application
- Conference papers

TYPES

- Primary (original) articles
- Secondary articles

WHY WE SHOULD PUBLISH

- Knowledge distribution
- To increase information reliability
- As part of CME
- Career, institutional, & professional benefits

CLINICAL PUBLICATION IS RELATIVELY EASY

- Continuous gaining of questions
- Wider fields & specialties
- Repeated studies & imperfection are acceptable
- Automatic support
- Huge number of general/ specialized medical journals
- Multicentre studies

COMMON OBSTACLES

- No time
- No idea
- No team
- No mentor
- No motivation
- No self-confidence
- Lack of knowledge about the topic, the starting point, or writing skills