Meet the Pollinators and Plan Their Paradise Presented by Angela Juffey

Our Pollinators are not just bees! Be introduced and understand the value of our other valuable pollinators such as bats, hummingbirds, moths, midges, beetles, flies and beneficial insects. Methods of attracting pollinators and pollinator friendly practices will be discussed as well as suggestions for planting annuals, perennials, trees, shrubs and herbs which will encourage your pollinators to return year after year.

Angela Juffey retired after teaching for 37 years in Freehold Township and began Beekeeping, presently serving as Secretary of the Central Jersey Beekeepers Association. She received her Master Gardener Certification in 2017 and is an active member of the Rutgers Master Gardeners of Monmouth County. She provides invaluable education on honey bees and pollinators. She is currently Treasurer of the Friends of the Monmouth County Child Advocacy Center, responsible for raising funds needed to support Phase I and II of the Child Advocacy Center, a State-of-the-Art facility, which services all of the children in Monmouth County who are victims of Child Abuse. As a teacher Angela was inducted into Alpha Delta Kappa, an international organization for outstanding women educators and presently serves as the New Jersey State Alpha Delta Kappa Webmaster. In her spare time, Angela enjoys making Swarovski crystal jewelry, hand cream, lip balm and candle beeswax products, and riding her dapple-grey thoroughbred, Bella.
