AUGUST 2026: NATIONAL WELLNESS MONTH

What is one wellness habit that you practice everyday in order to improve your life?

Wellness is more than physical health—it's about building confidence, resilience, independence, and purpose. National Wellness Month is an opportunity to recognize the many ways our personal, emotional, social, and professional well-being influence how we navigate everyday life. At Leadership Empowerment Group, we believe developing skills such as self-advocacy, communication, goal setting, stress management, and workplace readiness can help individuals feel more confident in school, work, and their communities. Through Vocational Rehabilitation services, we are proud to help individuals identify their strengths, overcome barriers, and build greater independence—because investing in yourself today can create opportunities for a healthier, more fulfilling future.
