Staycation can be fun family break

As people get ready to plan their vacations for the summer, it looks like COVID restrictions could once again prevent people from travelling too far, however that doesn't mean people should cancel their plans.

Randy Goulden said that people should consider planning a staycation.

"It's really interesting how we learn more about what we have in our own community. When you take a look at the things to do over the summer we look at all the different things we can do."

Goulden said that there are plenty of different activities for people to do such as taking part in the walking trails, the trout pond, or enjoying activities at the Gallagher Centre or one of the City's golf courses.

For example, the trout pond is still a relatively unknown recreational asset in the city.

The Logan Green Water Reuse Pond was developed with one goal; being a fish pond.

The area has been developed as a fish pond, in cooperation with the Saskatchewan Wildlife Federation as it fits with the organization's mandate "to create new fisheries in urban areas."

Once it was determined that fish would be viable habitat was developed for trout.

The habitat development included riffles in the stream, areas of stone which create pool areas, and help aerate water as it passes over the riffle area.

There was also a need to start vegetation along the water way to create a complete habitat.

With trout stocked regularly over the years, and platforms added to enhance fishing access, the pond has created many memories of big fish caught, and released for another fisherman.

The pond is catch and release, with signage on-site detailing specific rules.

If you want something non-physical there are exhibits at the Western Development Museum and the Godfrey Dean Art Gallery.

Yorkton is fortunate to have a robust art aspect, with shows at the Godfrey Dean Gallery, the pARTners Gallery in the Yorkton Public Library, and many outdoor installations as well.

A key public art piece is the Centennial Legacy Art piece at Shaw Park.

Lionel Auburn Peyachew's centennial art piece entitled "Doorways to Opportunity" was installed as a centennial gift from the province. As one of four centennial artworks to be installed in gateway communities, "Doorways to Opportunity" draws on many characteristics of the province and surrounding communities.

"Doorways to Opportunity" is an installation measuring approximately eight feet high and 20 feet in diameter. It is a piece that invites people to walk around it, examine it in detail, and even walk right through it.

Or, you can learn a bit more about the city and area too.

For example, take in the Crops of the Parkland Walking Tour, a few steps from the Visitor Information Centre on Highways 9 and 16.

The plots include cereals such as wheat and oats, oilseeds such as canola and flax, and legume crops such as field peas.

The crop plots are a volunteer-led project to give people going through Yorkton a chance to see what's grown here and get a closer look at the agriculture of the Yorkton area.

Or, check out the local cemetery.

A self-guided walking tour of the City of Yorkton Cemetery gives visitors a chance to experience the unique history of the area. It guides visitors along the pathways of this beautifully treed 10.5 acres; a book containing 28 sites has been prepared and can be purchased for $3. The complete tour will take about one hour and a half, but can be shortened. Stroll at your leisure, as you follow the trail outlines on the book's map. There are benches at various locations in the cemetery where a visitor can rest. On the tour you will meet many of the early pioneers, and some of the more contemporary figures of Yorkton and area; all interesting and colourful personalities. In the process, much of the region's history will be revealed.

If you like walking there are a number of 'in city' tours to enjoy, such as experience nature at the Ravine Ecological Preserve.

The Preserve offers a diverse 2.8 km hiking trail, which includes a floating boardwalk across the marsh, and then works its way through grassland, and aspen parkland habitat.

Located just off Crescent Avenue and west of the Gallagher Centre, the park is designed to allow people to connect with our natural world through an abundance of birds, plants and animals.

Goulden added that there is someone for everybody to do whether you are planning a family vacation or just looking for something to do this year when people plan their staycation.

Birding Opportunities

Birdwatching is a favoured activity of many on vacation, and the Yorkton area is a wonderful spot with many excellent locations to discover.

For those wanting to search out local species the Tourism Yorkton Centre has copies of 'Gone to the Birds' a special information sheet showcasing all of the birding opportunities in the area. The brochure includes everything from viewing tips, to details on where to look for the wildlife you are interested in.

Eleven spectacular birding opportunities are highlighted and waiting to be discovered.

June 5, 2003 marked the inception of the YFBTA which works to promote awareness of the importance of preserving and protecting spaces for wildlife to exist. YFBTA works to promote these spaces and to facilitate tourism.

"Birds are symbolic of nature. Migration is an incredible feat and it is, to say the very least, remarkable that they can travel incredible distances in volatile weather to arrive each spring. Many of the birds are sporting wonderful plumage in spring," said Rob Wilson with the Yellowhead Flyway Birding Trail Association (YFBTA), who added there is a near inherent interest most of us have in birds, and the local area is a good place to feed that interest.

Throughout the summer, excursions in nature are organized by association members. For details or to be a part of the outings check the website at www.yfbta.com or find us on Facebook, Yellowhead Flyway Birding.

The area of the Yellowhead Flyway Birding Trails Association extends from the Manitoba border west to Highway 9.

The southern part of the area begins with the Qu'Appelle Valley and its northern boundary lies north of Highway 10.

There are currently five birding trails within the YFBTA region: The Carlton Trail Regional Park, Cherrydale Golf Course and Nature Preserve, Kaposvar Trail, Leflay Trail and Slough View Park.

"I think our birding group attracts members because many people although not able to be active or choosing not to be active are nonetheless interested in being supportive of the advocacy. I believe that most people feel a sense of responsibility to ensuring that enough spaces and places are preserved facilitate the stopping, resting, feeding and sheltering that are an essential component of the migration process that birds attempt twice each year," offered Wilson. The YFBTA is affiliated with Nature Saskatchewan which publishes 'Nature Views' and 'The Blue Jay'.

Community pARTners Gallery

The Yorkton Arts Council, in partnership with the Yorkton Public Library, presents a series of visual exhibitions at the Community pARTners Gallery located in the Yorkton Public Library dedicated to exhibiting artwork by local and emerging artists as well as exhibitions provided by the Organization of Saskatchewan Arts Council's Visual Arts Touring program, Art on the Move.

May - June 2021 features an exhibition of puppets from the local 1990's television series Poetree and Friends

July- August 2021 Donna Langhorne: Common Truths - Art on the Move

"Common Truths continues my work of examining how challenges facing Indigenous people today can be identified and addressed artistically with reference to traditional teachings and concepts. Since 2015 I have been specializing in the use of the Woodlands style innovated by renowned Anishinaabe painter Norval Morrisseau. This was at the encouragement of recognized elders and practitioners in the Woodlands movement. As a member of Fishing Lake First Nation in Saskatchewan [Plains Ojibway], my ancestral roots are Anishinaabe. I have been drawn to this movement and my voice is wholly authentic and endorsed by this community of artists. This has served as a calling for me, and has proven to be immensely fulfilling artistically.

Because the lived experiences of Indigenous Peoples under colonial dominance represent a set of Common Truths, this project looks to another shared manifestation within Indigenous cultures to confront them: the organization of social structure and roles as represented by the clan system and the totems. For purposes of this project I use the corresponding Anishinaabe/Ojibway term doodem. [The works and titles] outline the connections I am making between the five classes within Anishinaabe clan structure [using four representative doodem per class] in order to confront 20 common truths impacting Indigenous people. References drawn from the TRC, the media, and/or the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous People, are included for each of the 20 Common Truths." -Donna Langhorne

If you are interested in participating in an exhibition please contact the Yorkton Arts Council office at 306-783-8722.

Walking Trails

While Yorkton has some excellent walking tours, there is also a growing network of pathways simply to enjoy by walking, biking or inline skating.

"The City of Yorkton pathways provide people an opportunity to go for a walk, bike or roll in a place where they don't have compete for space with cars," said Darcy McLeod, director Community Development, Parks & Recreation Department with the City of Yorkton. "They also support no cost or low cost activity as there is no special equipment requirement, fees or schedule to restrict someone from being active and getting out in nature."

The City has been dedicated to creating pathways with there being some 5.5 kilometres of paved or graveled pathways in place.

The goal is to create an overall network which will connect local residents, and also create another feature which can be enjoyed by tourists and visitors.

Yorkton said increasingly people on holidays want to stay active.

"Our pathways are a great way to take a look around our city passing through some beautiful park and natural areas," she said, adding people can go out for a good run, or leisurely walk, as it suits them.

Yorkton Film Festival

The Yorkton Film Festival has had a reputation and a long history for providing one of the premier events for filmmakers and film enthusiasts in Canada. 2020 would have been no different, but the global pandemic COVID19 has the festival pivoting to see the May 27 - 30 festivities going virtual.

"This was not a decision that we took lightly, but it was the right thing to do for all involved. This meant that much of the regular scheduled programmes and activities on the Festival's agenda such as student day, which focuses on student filmmakers; film screening for the public at the Gallagher Centre and the showing of a featured film at the Painted Hands Casino on opening night would now be virtual. Along with honouring the filmmakers who have submitted to the Golden Sheaf Awards," said YFF executive director Randy Goulден.

However, North America's longest running festival wanted to continue its tradition of honouring Canadian filmmakers, especially the future of the Canadian film industry, the emerging filmmakers. And after many consultations with its partners and interested parties, it was announced that the 74th Yorkton Film Festival Golden Sheaf Awards ceremony will be broadcast on Thursday, May 27, 2021 at 7.00pm (SK time) on Access7 and streamed online <https://www.myaccess.ca/Live/YFF/RandyGoulден>, YFF Executive Director "I'm pleased to thank our partners Java Post Production and Access Communications Co-operative for the support and assistance in the Virtual Golden Sheaf Awards. The tradition continues". This tradition will be a mini version of the whole festival experience but there will be an announcement of nominees that are the best in Canadian short films in their respective categories. And the awarding of coveted Golden Sheaf Awards which will signify the best of the best for 2021.

As we adapt and continue to grow, the Yorkton Film Festival is looking steadfast to 2022, May 26 - 29. For four days in May we will expect to put on a festival that is more in line with our growth and grander vision. We will still continue to provide some of the traditions that we are known for by filmmakers and our audience including; opening night, programmed screenings, lobsterfest, mini-cinema, panel discussions culminating with our prestigious gala; which brings liked minded people from the film industry and an audiences who enjoys short films throughout Canada.

Walking Tours

Taking a leisurely walk and take in the history of the city is easy in Yorkton thanks to four walking tours.

It's a way to "connect you with the past," said Darcy McLeod, Director of Community Development, Parks & Recreation with the City, adding they familiarize visitors "with some of the history of Yorkton. A person can observe details at close range, otherwise missed as you quickly walk or drive.

"Walking with a tour book in hand, or walking with a group (with safe distancing) — and people can organize their own group — makes it easy to stop and admire, for example the gargoyles of the old Hudson's Bay store building. Plus, Walking Tours allow you to do this at your own pace," said McLeod. Visitors like the tours as a way to get to know the city better. There are actually two written heritage walking tours for downtown Yorkton: "Promise and Potential - Yorkton in the Early 1900's" and "Pioneers Ways and Bygone Days". Both are available from City Hall and Tourism Yorkton. "Pioneer Ways and Bygone Days" is a close-up of the old town centre of Yorkton and is available for $10.00 at City Hall, Western Development Museum, Tourism Yorkton and Frameworks.

Heritage Walking Tour

Often the history of a community can only be found in a dusty book and by looking at faded photos. But the history of Yorkton is alive and well in the form of a self-guided walking tour. The tour begins at the Godfrey Dean Cultural Centre on Smith Street and ends at 29 Myrtle Avenue. If you proceed at a leisurely pace, the walk will take about an hour and a half. For a brochure on the tour, contact Tourism Yorkton by calling 783-8707.

The City also has a video walking tour - "Broadway and Back" - which can be taken on your smartphone. There is more information about it at this link: <http://www.yorkton.ca/history/>

City Cemetery Walking Tour

A self-guided walking tour of the City of Yorkton Cemetery gives visitors a chance to experience the unique history of the area. It guides visitors along the pathways of this beautifully treed 10.5 acres; a book containing 28 sites has been prepared and can be purchased for $3. The complete tour will take about one hour and a half, but can be shortened.

Stroll at your leisure, as you follow the trail outlines on the book's map. There are benches at various locations in the cemetery where a visitor can rest. On the tour you will meet many of the early pioneers, and some of the more contemporary figures of Yorkton and area; all interesting and colourful personalities. In the process, much of the region's history will be revealed.

Geocaching

If you like a good mystery and you want to go on a grand adventure, then geocaching might be just what you need to try.

In recent years the hobby of geocaching has been growing, and with that growth the opportunity to enjoy the activity while traveling.

Geocaching uses global positioning technology to help with what is essentially a modern take on a treasure hunt.

It's a case where other people hide things all over the place (outdoors generally), and then other people go out and find them using the GPS coordinates.

There are specialized GPS tracking units which can be used; Magellan and Garmin two of the best-known, but cellphones work too using various apps for iPhone and Android which link directly to the geocaching site.

The coordinates to the hidden spots are posting at www.geocaching.com, an Internet site which acts as a hub for sharing information with geocachers around the world. The site has thousands of caches to seek out around the world. There are some 40 in Yorkton and 500 in Regina as examples, and is free to sign up for.

Some caches are active year-round. Others, especially on the Canadian Prairies are hidden only through the warmer months.

In some cases there are connections to history with many caches related to old school yards, cemeteries and similar locations. Often information of the locales is included on the geocaching site.

While geocaching seems to be pretty widely based, there are some rules.

Caches are not supposed to be buried underground making access too hard, as an example.

Cachers also rarely post pictures of where a cache is located for fear it will make it easier to the next searcher to find.

After that it is pretty wide open. One international cache was actually a building, while the smallest are the size of the fingernail on your little finger. Since the sizes vary, and chases are hidden, GPS gets you only so far.

So when you're within 10-metres you start looking.

Sunflower Arts and Craft Market 2021: cancelled

For the safety of exhibitors, customers and volunteers the Yorkton Arts Council has cancelled its annual art and craft market, a popular showcase for more than 150 exhibitors from across Western Canada.

Healing Gardens

Feeling a little stressed with day-to-day life? Sonja Pawliw's Healing and Meditation Gardens may just be the answer for you. Located at 95 Wellington Avenue, the beautiful gardens provide a soothing, relaxing atmosphere for all to enjoy. Open daily by appointment from June 1 to September 1, the botanical gardens have everything from blooms, to soft music, to angels to enjoy. Call 306-783-7015 for details.

The Ravine Ecological Preserve

The Preserve offers a diverse 2.8 km hiking trail, which includes a floating boardwalk across the marsh, and then works its way through grassland, and aspen parkland habitat. Located just off Sully Avenue and west of the Gallagher Centre, the park is designed to allow for people to connect with our natural world through an abundance of birds, plants and animals.

The first boardwalk was installed at the location on the City's west side in 1985, explained Mayor Bob Maloney at an official unveiling of the new boardwalk in the fall of 2018. "It was a great fixture of the park," he said, noting the boardwalk stretched across the ravine joining the east and the west sides of the trail system. However, the boardwalk was damaged in the flood of 2010, necessitating an upgrade. Repairs were made to reopen the boardwalk and it continued to be in use until flooding again in 2014 significantly damaged the walkway rendering it unusable and resting on the eastern bank of the ravine. The new boardwalk has been designed to rise and fall with the level of water in the ravine, and ramps located on both ends of the ravine make it easily accessible from the nature trail. As the ravine does not see significant changes during the spring runoff, and with limited ice flow, the boardwalk will remain in the ravine over the winter months to be enjoyed year round, explained Maloney.

At the official opening, Trans Canada Trail said the Yorkton trail is part of a 24,000 kilometre network that “connects Canada coast to coast to coast” encompassing 15,000 communities and 400 trail groups. We encourage people “to go out and experience these great trails. Spend an hour, spend a day, spend a week, I guarantee it will make you proud.”

The Ravine Ecological Preserve is an approximate 80-acre natural park space which includes a walking/hiking trail that winds through rolling grasslands and aquatic and aspen parkland habitats. The preserve is also home to the Dulmage Farmstead, a municipal heritage site, as well as the arboretum and peace grove. For those visiting the boardwalk and associated ecological preserve, connecting with nature is as easy as exploring the Ravine Ecological Preserve in Yorkton. The Ecological Preserve also holds its share of history, including the Dulmage farmstead. A farmer, inventor and entrepreneur Dulmage’s story is one of the points of interest on the trails.

Yorkton Parks

For residents and tourists alike, Yorkton offers a number of parks with play structures to help keep children active and happy.

The park system includes spray parks installed at Heritage Heights Park, Silver Heights Park and Ukrainian Pioneer Park. The spray parks include geysers, spinners, high features, low features and makes the spray parks accessible and enjoyable by everyone. A new playground has also been installed adjacent to the old hospital property at Tupper Park (100 Tupper Avenue). The Tupper Park playground addition was part of an overall plan for the city that included a wheelchair accessible play structure at Weinmaster Park (just off Morrison Drive, in northeast Yorkton). The universally accessible playground is a play environment created to be wheelchair accessible throughout the entire structure and surrounding play area with more challenging paths of travel or activities along or beside the wheelchair accessible routes. The accessible play structures also allow parents and caregivers to be nearby and play with their children.

While there are no immediate plans for additional playground construction, work will continue to add picnic areas, benches/rest areas, and more pathways throughout the city.

Overall, there are more than 35 parks and greenspaces in Yorkton, and if one includes sports fields (ball diamonds and soccer pitches), and buffer/pathway areas, this number jumps to more than 75 individual areas, totalling more than 500 acres. There are eight current playgrounds, one dog park, one skate park, three natural areas, two disc golf courses, eight tennis courts, five outdoor basketball nets, three spray parks, nine ball diamonds, four soccer pitches, and over 10 kilometers of pathways, including paved, gravel, and grass pathways.

Motocross Racing

Few sport events are any more thrilling than motocross. In Yorkton that means a trip to the Millstone Park Raceway which has been operated by the Yorkton Motorcycle Club for the past 22 years. Named the 2008 Motocross Track of the Year, the raceway is located two km north of Yorkton on the #9 highway next to Millstone Park, the original site of Yorkton. The track is open daily to club members to sharpen racing and off-road handling skills. Daily and yearly riding passes are available for non-members Monday to Saturday at Schrader Motors during normal business hours. Parental accompaniment is required for riders under 18 years of age. A kiddies' or beginner track is available for beginning riders. As well, the club offers a riding school for novice riders, dates to be announced. "One of the very unique things about motocross is that racers of all ages, genders and abilities compete on the same day on the same track," said local sport spokesperson Rick Bradshaw. "Although there are a number of different classes to group riders by ability and ages, there are very few if any sports where an entire family compete on the same day. New spectators are often surprised by the ability of a rider only to discover they are a 12-year-old girl then watch as two 50-year-old men bang bars and battle back and forth with the stamina of men half their ages. Watching a couple of the top professional racers in the country battle for a win then congratulate each other after 20-minutes of competition shows the sportsmanship that motocross racers have."

And fans will love the track too to enjoy the high-flying action, spinning rubber and flying dirt associated with the sport. "Yorkton's Millstone Raceway facility is great for spectator access as they can walk around the fenced inside of over half of the race track and see the action from a variety of viewpoints," said Bradshaw. "With the area being located next to the highway access is great. Plus, the club always does one of the best race preparation jobs in the province so the track is well watered and groomed for awesome race action."

"Motocross is a very exciting sport. The start of a race can have up to 40 racers on the line together heading in the first turn. New spectators love the high jumps and bumps. All enthusiasts enjoy the close racing action and many come to realize the great skill it takes to make a lap let alone multiple laps at racing speed. For more information about the track or the motocross race call Rick Bradshaw at 306-621-4341, or Rick Dawson at 306-621-1426.

Disc Golf

Disc golf has become a popular sport and recreation around the world, and interest locally is expanding rapidly with Yorkton the hub of the activity regionally.

In Yorkton, Patrick Park Disc Golf Course is the venue to experience the sport, located off King Street.

Opened in June 2011, as nine basket course it has proved a challenge for experienced disc golfers with trees to manoeuvre through from almost every tee box, and yet forgiving for beginners since the course does not have hazards where discs can be lost.

The original nine at Patrick Park is a par-27 and covers 2379-feet.

The experience was expanded in 2015, through an initiative spear-headed by local players, and supported by the City, to install a set of nine alternate tee boxes, which affords players an opportunity to play a 'back-nine' with new approaches to the existing baskets.

The 'back-nine' is a par-33 and extends the course by 3037-feet, by utilizing some new disc golf features, in particular several mandatories, specific features a player's disc must pass around in a particular direction — left-or-right of the marked feature.

In the spring of 2020 the course grew with nine baskets being added around the base of the city water tower and across the street throught the hills of Rodney Ridge. The changes in elevations give disc golfers a very different set of challenges.

The Yorkton course is one of those under the banner of the Parkland Association of Disc Golf.

The Association represents more than 20 courses — all within an easy 125 km radius drive of Yorkton.

In 2019, several courses grew from tonals to baskets including Sandy Beach on Good Spirit Lake and Assissippi Beach and Campground north of Russell, MB. New basket courses were installed at Churchbridge and Sun Hills Resort near Togo.

For more information email padg.yorkton@gmail.com

More events will be announced as the season continues.

Skateboard Park

Yorkton boasts one of the premier outdoor skateboard parks in the province. It is an ideal place to show off skills in a sport with a growing base and increased recognition of what it takes to be great at the activity. The park, situated right off Broadway Street in the city, is part of the Brodie Recreation Corridor that includes a paved walking path, which connects with Patrick Park Disc Golf Course.

The park is concrete and includes a range of jump elements which are sure to be both a challenge and a thrill for users, and one the snow melts each spring becomes a very busy recreational facility in Yorkton. Skaters planning a holiday in the city, or just passing through, will want to make sure to check it out.

Logan Green Fish Pond

If you want a leisurely time tossing a few hooks in the hopes of enticing a trout to take a bite, then head over to the Logan Green Fish Pond in Yorkton. The area has been developed as a fish pond, in cooperation with the Saskatchewan Wildlife Federation as it fits with the organization's mandate "to create new fisheries in urban areas."

The initial step was to determine the feasibility of stocking the pond and man-made stream work undertaken by the Fisheries Project Coordinator of the SWF. Once it was determined that fish would likely be viable they had to develop suitable habitat. The habitat development included riffles in the stream, areas of stone which create pool areas, and help aerate water as it passes over the riffle area. That work was started earlier in 2012, and algae and insects in the water, which biologically speaking is a positive sign, began to appear quickly. There was also vegetation started along the water way to create a complete habitat.

The City of Yorkton along with Yorkton and Saskatchewan Wildlife Federations, and the Assiniboine Watershed Stewardship Association stocked the pond in the spring of 2014. Rainbow Trout were the fish of choice. The fish grew well over the first summer, and were being caught off flies by fall, and they over-wintered meaning bigger fish lurk in the pond now. The pond is catch and release, with signage on-site detailing specific rules.

The project is having benefits beyond local fishing, with the potential to develop educational programs for the public, but particularly for students.
