Personal Interests

I love sailing, walking and archery. I have a number of marine qualifications including commercial yacht skipper and small boat instructor certification and associated qualifications – HOEC and UKSA circa 1995.

Random fact – I once capsized a yacht in the middle of the ocean in a hurricane causing a fire!

Nicholas Gravenor

A committed team player and confident at leading staff in a way that encourages staff to excel, demonstrated by a successful career in the Police and leading dyslexia support. Experienced at analysing situations, documents, and individuals, producing detailed written legal reports, and negotiating outcomes. With an appetite to learn and develop.

Current Experience and Education

BSc (Hons) Cyber Security Management Student. Sep 2020 – Current.

Building on a career in policing and with a desire to develop, returned to full-time education at university as a mature student focusing on Cyber Security Management. Proudly completed the first year successfully being eligible for a certificate of Higher Education with Distinction (81.28%).

Networks and Cyber Security - 87.0%
Application of Programming Principles - 86.0%
Data and Databases - 83.0%
Principles of Programming - 82.2%
Computer Fundamentals - 77.7%
Business Systems Analysis and Design - 71.7%

Peer Assisted Learning Leader (PAL Leader) August 2021 – Current.

A hugely important role for new students to aid their learning and develop them as they begin their journey in academia. The role reinforces self-learning and understanding of subjects as the students work through the units. Driven to extend into the role of Student Ambassador in the coming months.

Extra-Curricular

In a bid to support and encourage others with dyslexia, created and developed a blog website, dyslexicstudent.co.uk, focusing on the many hurdles and obstacles dyslexic individuals face at university. The blog focuses on personal coping mechanisms and tools, shining a light on assistive technology. Committed to developing one's own skill, developed several websites, including a photography business and a feel-good-news site.
