ARYA AT STRONG CAPACITY

CASE STUDY BUILDING CAPACITY

The issue Assess the organization's financial strength by projecting future income levels and determine where to make shifts in resources.

The strategy: We built a financial model, making assumptions for balance sheet and income statements. We identified which lines of business and instruments generated unsustainable returns.

The action: We proposed shifts in the business model to reduce expenses, and made recommendations as to which activities proved to not yield financial or organizational benefit.

The outcome: We converged units and eliminated redundant processes, which resulted in multi-year savings and affording new opportunities for staff mobility.

Case studies for ARYA services taken primarily for work conducted for World Bank Group (I.F.C.) and other endeavors. Application of practices reflect future ARYA direction.
