The First Step: De-Cluttering

---

Date:

Name:

We put up with, accept, take on, and are dragged down by people and situations that we may have come to ignore in our lives rather than fix them. Now is the time to identify those things that drain your energy for positive activities. As you think of more items, add them to your list.

You may or may not choose to do anything about them right now, but just becoming aware of and articulating them will bring them to the forefront where you'll naturally start eliminating, fixing or resolving them.
