Staff Spotlight

Meet Lindsey - our sexual assault therapist! Lindsey works with survivors of all ages, including children, teens, and adults, to process traumas and create a more fulfilling lifestyle through goal setting and empowerment. Lindsey values holding a warm, judgement-free space to connect with clients and work together to meet their needs. For Lindsey, the most meaningful part of the work she does is being trusted to walk through a piece of someone's journey. Being witness to the resilience and strength of survivors has made lasting impressions on her experience with us.

Prior to SafeCenter, Lindsey was finishing her Master's degree in counseling from Western Michigan University. When not in the office, she can most likely be found with a coffee and her bulldog, Merna, who has grown very fond of working from home! Lindsey appreciates time spent outside in her hammock or kayak, and time spent inside reading or creating new works of art through her love of pottery.
