LANDSCAPING PLAYS AN INTEGRAL ROLE FOR THE INSPIRATION OF PARK QUARTER

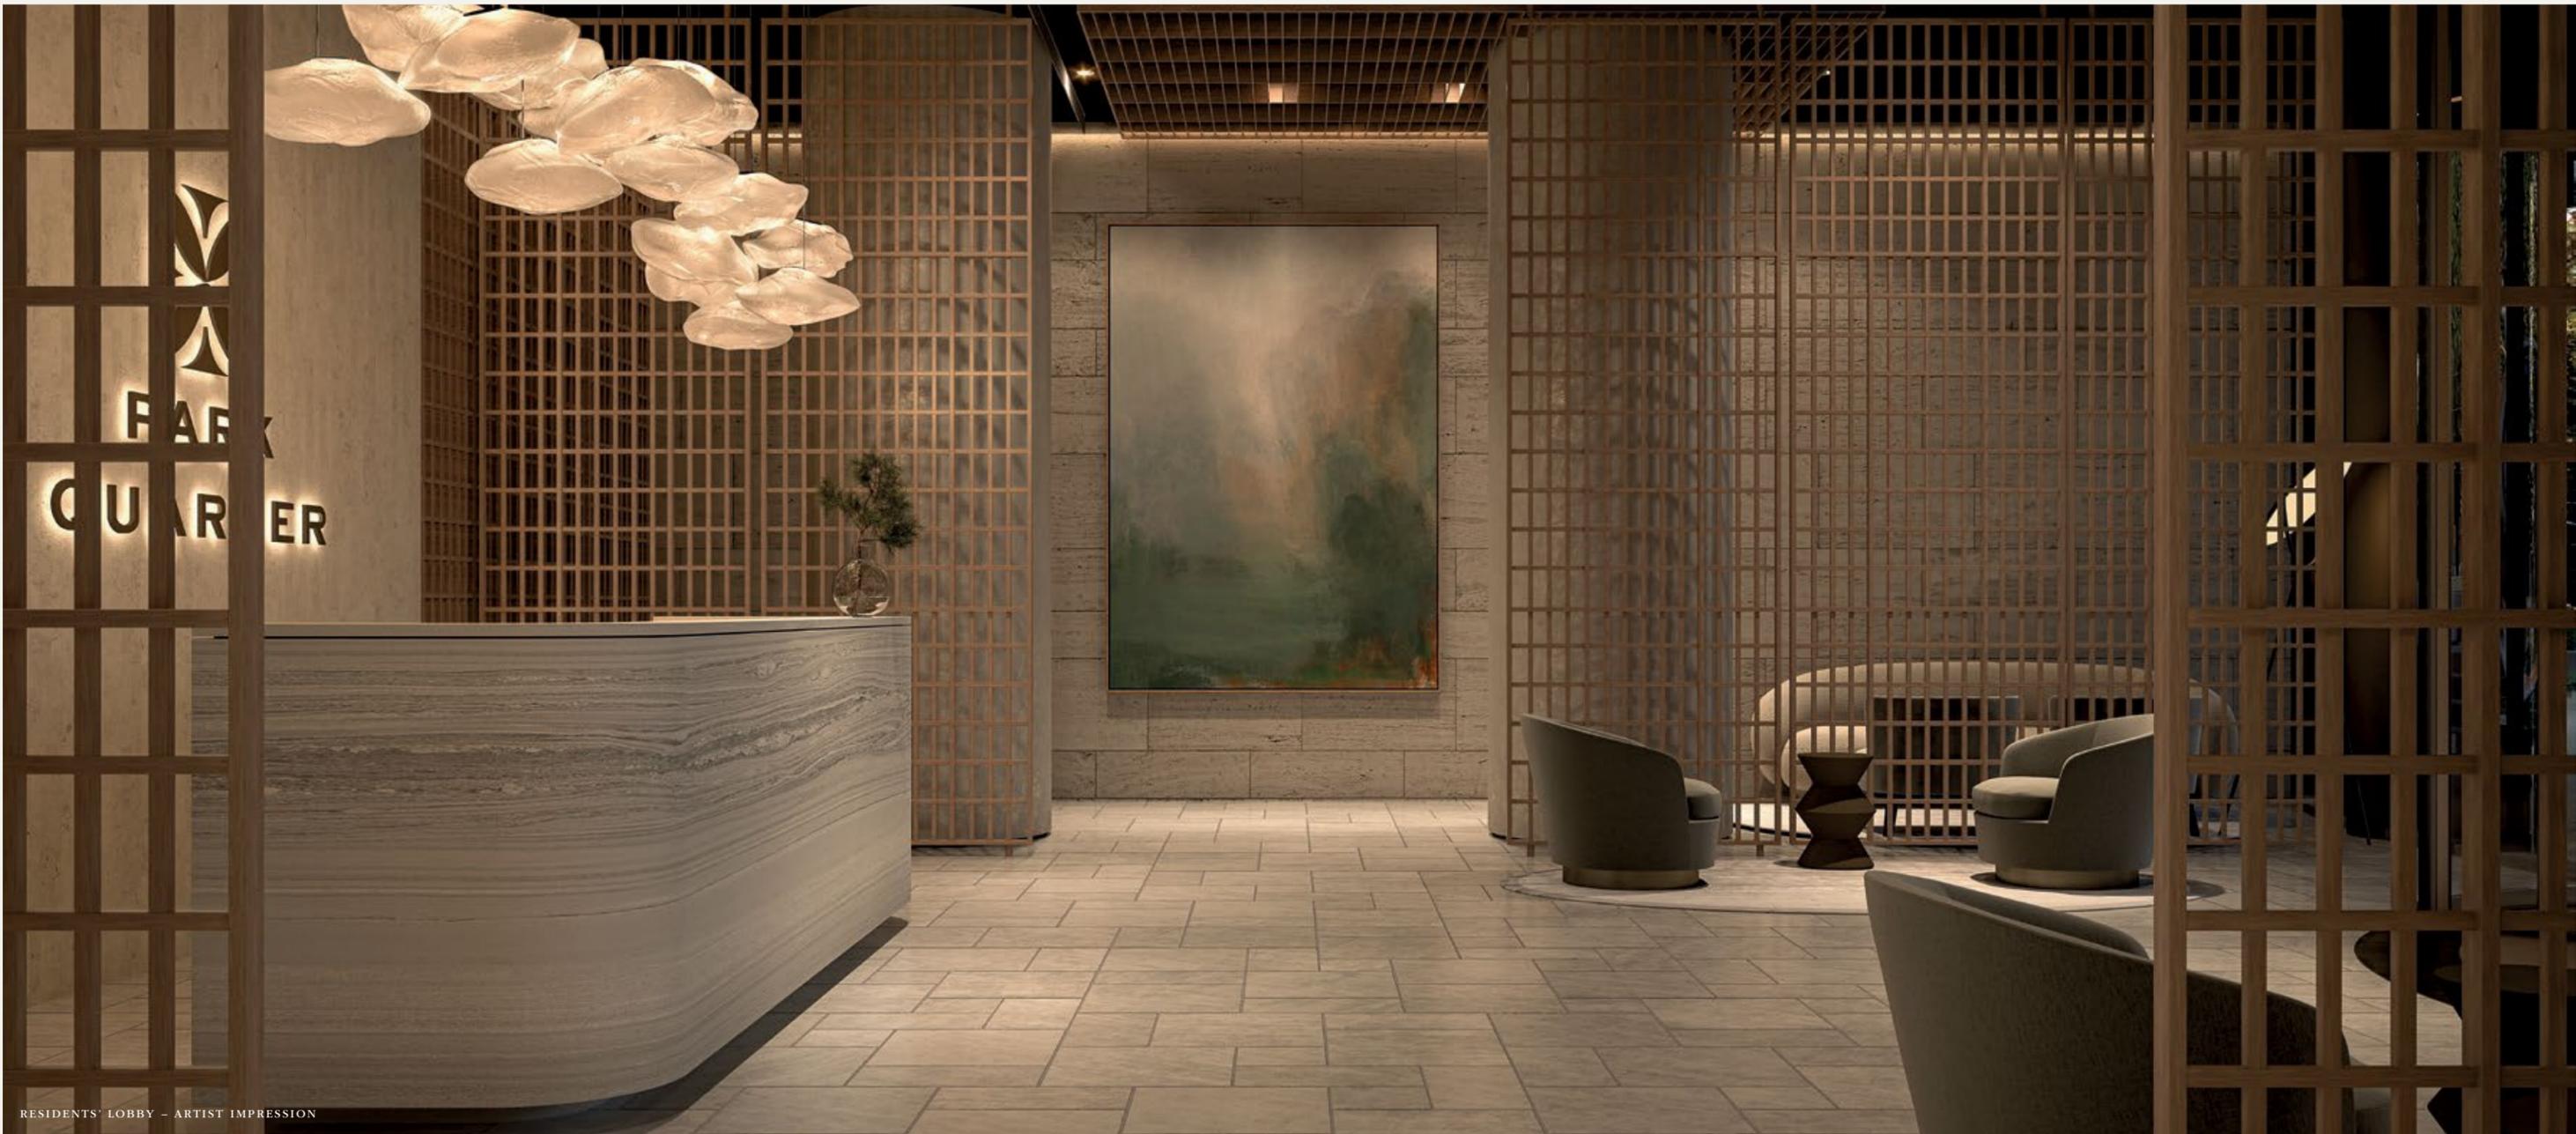

Designed by the eminent landscape designer Paul Bangay, the gardens are grand and luscious in appearance but designed with human scale in mind. The terraced gardens, responding to the gentle gradient of the site, include a fine mesh of pedestrian paths that allow neighbours to have moments of interaction.

The building itself will also be adorned in lush greenery, carefully selected to break up the built form and create a vertical urban forest, aesthetically contributing to the balcony terraces and rooftop gardens but also adding a specific character to the feel of the building.
