Sudha Chandran is a very famous dancer and a television actress in India. Sudha was initiated into dance by her mother when she was hardly four and started performing professionally at the age of nine. However, when she was a sixteen-year-old girl, she met with a road accident and lost her right leg. Yet she showed courage and got an artificial leg, also known as a Jaipur foot. She practised her art again, becoming one of the most famous dancers of India. Her dance was perfect as the audience and dance critics could not find any difference between her past footwork and the present. The media all over the world applauded her as a symbol of determination and willpower. She also won the 1985 National Award for her first film Mayuri which was based on her own life. She has established a dance academy known as Sudha Chandran's Nache Mayuri Dance Academy. She also works for the welfare of the disabled.
