Brain Dump: Retired

Let us help you articulate your situation. Put a check beside any that apply to you:

	I have things to look forward to in retirement.	I worry I will outlive my money.	The current income set up is adequate.
	I am stressed about finances.	I have no strategy to overcome obstacles.	I need help with budgeting on a fixed income.
	I need to set aside funds for a larger purchase.	I want to take a big vacation.	I am worried about estate taxes.
	I have a family and friend support system.	I would like to volunteer more.	I have unfinished estate plans.
	I have aging parents I need to care for.	The care of my property is getting to be overwhelming.	My home is set up to "age in place." I plan on living here forever.
	I do not write down goals.	My insurance coverage is adequate.	I have inadequate emergency savings.
	I worry about how my heirs will handle my retirement funds.	I am afraid to spend money.	I think about part time employment in my area of expertise.
	I am not sure when to draw social security.	I need to think about a change in living arrangements before health problems arise.	I would like to set aside money for kids and grandkids education.
	I do not identify obstacles to my goals.	I may need to think about hiring someone for housekeeping and errands.	I have a Power of Attorney and Living Will.
	I spend more than my retirement income may allow.	I have health problems.	I think about moving closer to family.
