Brain Dump: Short and Long Term Goals

Let us help you articulate your situation. Put a check beside any that apply to you:

I am working towards my financial goals.	I am stressed about finances.	I do not know how my business will help me in retirement.
I contribute to an HSA.	I have no strategy to overcome obstacles.	I have a clear path to retirement.
I have undefined goals.	I do not take advantage of my 401(k) match.	I need to fund some short-term goals.
I can see my investments growing.	I am not sure why I save money.	I have unfinished estate plans.
I need to prepare to take care of aging parents.	I am not sure how to save for retirement in a tax efficient manner.	I am not sure if I should borrow or pay cash for big purchases.
I have a hobbie I want to become a business in retirement.	My insurance coverage is adequate.	I have inadequate emergency savings.
My money is allocated in the wrong investments.	I am afraid to spend money.	I have no idea if my employer plan is set up correctly.
I want to take a big vacation.	I don't have a plan.	I need to prepare for college expenses for my children.
I do not identify obstacles to my goals.	I have too much cash on hand.	I would like to invest more.
I spend more than I make.	I have health problems.	I have too many accounts/advisors.
