IAI is an Augmented Intelligence Solutions and Data Aggregation provider. We are developing our own AI-enabled tools and work with software companies to introduce software solutions to our clients. We recently presented the OPTIONS Decision Making software concept to DNI and SBIR proposals to the Department of Defense.

One of our software partners is Semantic AI. IAI is working with Semantic AI to modify their AI-enabled intelligence platform (CORTEX EIP) for various government and commercial customers. Our first IAI/Semantic AI collaboration is a Supply Chain Risk Management/Corporate Due Diligence version of the Cortex platform (Cortex SCRM), which greatly enhances analyst's ability to quickly and concisely research volumes of information from disparate sources. We are working with other AI/ML companies to develop additional applications for existing products. As an analyst-led company we know where there is room for improvement. IAI is Bridging Analytical Gaps.

IAI is unique among companies providing analytical support. It was founded and continues to be led by Mr. Carl McDonald, an Intelligence Subject Matter Expert with over 35 years global experience in all disciplines. He is the driving force behind the company and instills upon employees a deep sense of commitment and dedication to the missions and organizations supported by IAI.

Our customers benefit from IAI's extensive in-depth knowledge of the Intelligence and Defense Communities, their ability to leverage a significant number of personal and professional contacts across the Enterprise, as well as knowledge of the Intelligence Communities systems, processes and ways of working. Our support has helped agencies to cut costs, increase productivity, and enhance mission effectiveness. IAI's SME support to commercial clients resulted in significant contract wins and we continue to support our partners in growing within the commercial and government spaces.
