I met Sheri when she spoke at a women's event at our church. She was the most engaging speaker I'd ever encountered – so much so, I sought her out at the end of the event and spoke to her personally. Sheri exhibits an extremely rare and admirable combination of both grace and honesty in her approach to coaching. She is a kind, loving, and godly woman, and there is absolutely no doubt in my mind that she would be an excellent coach for you as well. Paula

Sheri's genuine love for Christ and caring nature shows and she is one of the most dedicated, hardworking, and internally motivated women that I know. Her efforts are first rate in everything she strives to do. I wholeheartedly believe in her ability to connect with women and influence them in a positive way. Teresa

Sheri is full of wisdom, encouragement, discernment, and love for the Lord that spills over. She is a wonderful listener who has the ability to glean what is needed to help in a situation. She is an amazing life coach and instructor who has the desire that everyone lives life to their full potential. I cannot recommend Sheri enough as she will craft an individual plan to help you through whatever your needs are. Sharon

Sheri has been my BEST earthly source for Godly wisdom. Sheri puts God first in her life so she can be a blessing to others. Sheri has continually encouraged me to improve my life. If you want help, Sheri WILL HELP YOU draw closer to Jesus so you can discover His unique design for your life! Marianne

Sheri Geyer was born to be a life coach. She has so much real-life wisdom flowing from her own real-life battles, her compassion for people, her understanding of scripture and her intimate and authentic walk with God. Whether you are in need of guidance for the long haul or a fresh word of insight for the moment, I highly recommend the services of Sheri Geyer. Chris

Sheri is always willing to listen and is a reliable coach who comes with years of experience and advice if needed. One thing I have always loved about Sheri is that her advice comes with a Godly and not worldly perspective, which is very important for me. Sheri has helped me to set clear boundaries in my personal and professional life and has allowed me to see that it is okay and in fact, necessary to take care of me. Katie

Sheri is a very loyal person who is always willing to share her expertise. She has a way of speaking into situations that cause a person to look within and draw out their positive strengths. I am grateful for her wise words and the peaceful manner in which she helps me work through challenges I face. Not only is Sheri a great listener and coach, she receives other's suggestions and critiques well, looking within to implement change if necessary. The thing I love most about Sheri is her Christian faith. It is apparent to anyone how much she loves God and seeks to live her life to please Him and to lead a Biblical life. Barbara

I felt that Sheri truly cared about me and my challenges. Sheri is very experienced in her field, and has true compassion for what she does. I was provided valuable guidance, loving support and validation when needed. I am a confident and happier person now and have moved forward in life's journey. Wanda

Sheri offers support and guidance in the form of personal life experiences and encouragement. Sheri offered positive suggestions for coping with hurt and challenges in ways that are beneficial as opposed to using vices such as shopping, other relationships, eating or drinking in excess, etc. to avoid dealing with painful issues and run the risk of repeating them. The guidance Sheri provides helped me to move forward in a positive direction with relationships and other areas of my life. Wendy
