Ethics vs Morals, You Decide

Course number - 71332

In this course, we will explore the important distinction between ethics and morals, two concepts that are often used interchangeably but have different meanings and applications. Morals refer to an individual's personal beliefs about right and wrong, shaped by family, culture, religion, and personal experiences. Ethics, on the other hand, are the rules and standards of behavior established by a group, profession, or society to guide conduct in a consistent and fair way.
