Description

Our journey takes us along the gorgeous coastal road through Castellammare di Stabia and out along the highway to Herculaneum. Herculaneum was destroyed along with Pompeii in 79 AD, and rediscovered in 1709. It was a residential town without Pompeii's commercial importance, surrounded by the villas of the wealthy Romans. When the catastrophe of 79 AD occurred Herculaneum was submerged under a torrent of mud and lava that hardened into a soft tufa (a kind of coarse rock) that preserved many of the timber features and household objects which can be seen today. A large portion of the old Herculaneum is still buried under the modern town and to this day, excavations are still being carried out to discover what treasures lie buried under the rock, to the extent that some families are being rehoused so work can continue.

Ischia and Hiking Tour of Mount Epomeo

BOOKED THROUGH

Alessandro Mattera Platypus

(From 520 up to 789 mts. altitude) Through the ancient path, we will reach slowly the summit.

During every stop you will have the chance to learn in details about the mountain, the rocks it is made of and the endemic flora.

Mount Epomeo represents Ischia's hearth and origins too: it generated the most of the island.

Through rocks and graphs you will discover how the mountain arose from the sea thanks to the volcanic activity.

From Mount Epomeo's peak the view is breathtaking: with good visibility we will be able to admire, apart from Gulf of Naples, Circeo and Pontiane islands.

During the stop on the peak we will go deeper into some historical events connected to the Hermitage and the Church dedicated to Saint Nicholas.

On the Northern side of the mountain you will observe the side of the island that due to an earthquake during 1883 was completely destroyed.

(From 789 to 690 mts. altitude) From the Hermitage we will reach "Pietra dell'acqua" (water stone) the second highest peak of the Island, where you will admire a masterwork, made to collect and store rainwater.

(From 690 to 400 mts. altitude) Along the path we will show you the mountain endemic flora, comparing it to that growing along the coast, the blossoming during the different seasons including the medical plants, which were used by the hermits living in the Hermitage dug into the peak of the mountain.

We will reach green tuff cliff, where the circular erosion of Taffoni created the ideal conditions for the nesting of Peregrin Falcon the fastest animal on Earth.

The path will lead us to penetrate a chestnut forest hiding an enigmatic village made of houses carved into rocks.
