Stephanie holds a Bachelor of Laws from the University of Wollongong, a Graduate Diploma of Legal Practice, and a Bachelor of Commerce with a major in Human Resource Management. She has specialised in family law since 2017. In November 2019, Stephanie completed her Master of Applied Law (Family Law), followed by her Master of Applied Law majoring in Family Dispute Resolution Practice in 2021.

Stephanie is a Nationally Accredited Mediator (NMAS) and a Family Dispute Resolution Practitioner (FDRP). She has also completed specialist training to become a qualified Collaborative Lawyer, and she holds certifications as a Parenting Coordinator and Conflict Coach. Additionally, Stephanie has been trained as an Independent Children's Lawyer.

In 2021, Stephanie was named a finalist for the Rising Star of the Year Award by the Women Lawyers Association of NSW. She is an active member of the Greater West Family Law Practitioners Association, where she contributes to the organisation's initiatives.

Known for her exceptional negotiation skills, Stephanie often achieves successful outcomes in family law matters without the need for clients to proceed to court. She takes a compassionate, client-focused approach to help individuals navigate the challenges of separation.

Beyond her expertise in dispute resolution, Stephanie is a strong advocate, having represented clients in a broad range of family law matters, including children's issues, de facto relationships, same-sex relationships, spousal maintenance, property disputes, child abduction, and contravention applications.
