MDH Laboratory Introduces New Pricing for Individuals with High Deductible Plans

MACOMB, IL - McDonough District Hospital announces a new feature for patients utilizing the Laboratory and Drive-Thru services.

Patients with a doctor's order needing laboratory testing done, but have a high deductible insurance plan or no insurance, can take advantage of discounted prices for self-pay.

Those using the self-pay service (check or credit card payments accepted at the time of service) cannot have these tests also run through their insurance plan for payment.

"McDonough District Hospital's new retail pricing for laboratory work embarks MDH on a transformative era in patient care. By providing an alternative to insurance billing, especially beneficial for those with high deductible health plans, it offers both affordability and accessibility. Now, individuals and families can access competitive pricing for lab testing, effortlessly paying at the time of service," said Director of Laboratory Services Brittany Doll MS, HTL(ASCP). "This initiative not only simplifies the payment process but underscores the hospital's commitment to putting patient well-being at the forefront."

Patients can take advantage of this new self-pay service at the MDH Laboratory, located on the first floor of the hospital, or at the MDH Drive-Thru (open Monday-Saturday). To save time and pre-register, call (309) 836-1753. For more information and a list of tests and prices, log on to MDH.org/Lab.

Memorial Hospital Recertified As An Emergent Stroke-Ready Hospital By IDPH

Carthage, IL—The Illinois Department of Public Health has recertified Memorial Hospital as an Emergent Stroke Ready hospital. Earning the certification requires Memorial Hospital to meet the standards to support better outcomes by providing early intervention to stroke patients. The eligibility standards include a dedicated stroke-focused program, qualified medical professionals trained in stroke care, and individualized care to meet stroke patients' needs.

Raigan Brown, Chief Nursing Officer at Memorial Hospital, states, "We are very fortunate to receive this designation that enables us to provide early stroke intervention to the region we serve. In stroke cases, there is a small window of opportunity for the most successful treatment, so every minute counts."

As an Emergency Stroke Ready hospital, Memorial Hospital is certified, trained, and ready to provide quality care to stroke patients.

IDNR seeking public's help with wild turkey brood surveys

Illinois Department of Natural Resources

SPRINGFIELD – The Illinois Department of Natural Resources is looking for volunteer citizen scientists to assist with wild turkey brood surveys to aid biologists in monitoring turkey population trends and reproductive success.

Summertime is when young turkeys are hatching, and by counting them and adult females, biologists can assess trends in reproductive success and survival of young turkeys. Biologists also count male turkeys to estimate total wild turkey abundance, male-to-female ratios, and adult survival.

Participants are asked to report young turkeys, adult females, and adult males with every observation, as well as the county and date of the observation during the months of June, July, and August.

The best way to submit turkey sightings is through the department's electronic wild turkey survey online. The survey can be accessed on both personal computers and mobile devices through any internet browser or the Survey123 app.

Participants who cannot use the electronic survey can have postcards mailed to them. Email DNR.Turkey@illinois.gov with questions.

Why are there holes in my roses? Roseslugs

By: Ken Johnson

Horticulture Educator, University of Illinois Extension

JACKSONVILLE, Ill, June 5, 2024: Roses have been popular flowers for centuries and remain popular today. Their large, showy, often fragrant flowers grace many landscapes. Humans aren't the only animals that find roses attractive, though. A variety of insects will feed on roses. While Japanese beetles often get much of the blame, they aren't the only insects that will feed on the foliage of roses. Roseslugs can also frequently be found feeding on rose leaves.

What are roseslugs?

Roseslugs are caterpillar-like insects. Three different species can be found in Illinois: the European roseslug (Endomyia aethiops), the curled roseslug (Allantus cinctus), and the bristly roseslug (Cladius difformis).

Despite their common name and appearance, they are not slugs or caterpillars but sawflies. Sawflies are related to bees, ants, and wasps (Hymenoptera) and are often considered pests because they feed on plants. Sawflies get their common name from their saw-like ovipositor (egg-laying structure) that they will use to cut slits into the stems or leaves of plants to lay their eggs.

Life cycle and damage

European roseslug larvae are light green with orange heads and will grow about ½ inch long. They feed on the upper surfaces of leaves as they feed on the upper leaf surface. When they are done feeding, they will leave the plant and pupate in the ground, where they will remain until the following spring (one generation per year).

Curled roseslugs are green with white spots and have yellow heads with a dark stripe down the middle. They will grow to be around ¾ inch long. In addition to their feeding damage, when they pupate, they will bore into twigs, particularly those that have been pruned, which can further damage plants. They will often curl up when resting, thus their common name. There are two generations per year.

Bristly roseslugs are green, with fine, hairlike spines, and grow to about ½ inch long. When small, they will feed on the undersides, causing them to have windowpane-like damage. As the larvae get larger, they eat the entire leaf except for large veins. There can be six or more generations per year, meaning they are capable of causing extensive damage, especially towards the end of the growing season.

Managing roseslugs

Because European and curled roseslugs are only present early in the growing season, management is usually unnecessary. However, because bristly roseslugs are present throughout the growing season, management may be necessary if populations become high.

Small infestations can be removed by hand, or a forceful spray of water can be used to knock off and kill small larvae. If you use water, spray both the leaves' upper and undersides.

If populations become too high, insecticides can also be used to manage populations. Remember, despite looking like caterpillars, they are closely related to bees, ants, and wasps (Hymenoptera). So insecticides like Bacillus thuringiensis kurstaki (Btk), which only work on caterpillars (Lepidoptera), will not affect these insects. Insecticides containing horticultural oil, insecticidal soaps, acephate, bifenthrin, carbaryl, and cyfluthrin can be used to manage roseslugs.

If you decide to use pesticides, read and follow all label directions. While many roses have limited (if any) pollen and nectar available to pollinators, some single-flowered types may. Ensure you avoid getting insecticides on flowers; anything that will kill roseslugs will likely kill pollinators too.

Good Growing Fact of the Week: Sawflies differ from bees, ants, and wasps in several ways. Sawflies have a broad "waist" (the area where the thorax and abdomen connect), while the others are narrow. Sawflies also have caterpillar-like larvae.

2024 Water Quality Report

City of Macomb
Annual Water Quality Report for the period of January 1 to December 31, 2023

WATER QUALITY - 2023

This report is intended to provide you with important information about your drinking water and the efforts made by the water system to provide safe drinking water. This report includes drinking water facts, information on violations (if applicable), and contaminants detected in your drinking water supply during calendar year 2023. Each year, we will provide you a new report. If you need help understanding this report or have general questions, please contact the person listed below.

Contact Name: Dave Vavrek
Telephone Number: 815-444-4417

Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre el agua que usted bebe. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

Sources of Drinking Water

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and groundwater wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

The source of drinking water used by Macomb is Surface Water from Spring Lake.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.

- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.

- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

Other Facts about Drinking Water

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at (800) 426-4791.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. We cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking and cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Source Water Assessment

Source water protection (SWP) is a proactive approach to protecting our critical sources of public water supply and assuring that the best source of water is being utilized to serve the public. It involves implementation of pollution prevention practices to protect the water quality in a watershed or wellhead protection area serving a public water supply. Along with treatment, it establishes a multi-barrier approach to assuring clean and safe drinking water to the citizens of Illinois. The Illinois EPA has implemented a source water assessment program (SWAP) to assist with wellhead and watershed protection of public drinking water supplies.

We want our valued consumers to be informed about their water quality. If you would like to learn more, please feel welcome to attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. The source water assessment for our supply has been completed by the Illinois EPA. If you would like a copy of this information, please stop by City Hall, or call our water operator at (309)-836-3916. To view a summary version of the completed Source Water Assessment, including: Importance of Source Water; Susceptibility to Contamination Determination; and documentation/recommendation of Source Water Protection Efforts, you may access Illinois EPA website at <http://www.epa.state.il.us/cgi-bin/wp/swap-fact-sheets.pl>.

Source of Water: MACOMB
Source water name: INTAKE (58055) SPRING LAKE; Type of Water: SW, Location: 4.5 Miles NW WTP

Source Water name: WELL 3 (01543), REVERSE OSMOSIS TREATMENT; Type of Water: GW, Location: South of WTP

Illinois EPA considers all surface water sources of community water supply to be susceptible to potential pollution problems; hence, the reason a mandatory treatment for all surface water supplies in Illinois. Mandatory treatment includes coagulation, sedimentation, filtration, and disinfection. The watershed areas contain mostly agriculture and woodland, with some urban and industrial areas. The portion of this area considered most critical

Microbial Contaminants

Turbidity	Limit (Treatment Technique)	Level Detected	Violation	Likely Source of Contamination
Highest Single Measurement	1 NTU	0.309 NTU	N	Soil runoff
Lowest monthly % meeting limit	0.3 NTU	100%	N	Soil runoff

Information Statement: Turbidity is a measurement of cloudiness of the water caused by suspended particles. We monitor it because it is a good indicator of water quality and the effectiveness of our filtration system and disinfectants.

Lead and Copper

Definitions:

Action Level Goal (ALG): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. ALG's allow for a margin of safety.

Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Lead and Copper	Date Sampled	MCLG	Action Level (AL)	90 th Percentile	# Sites Over AL	Units	Violation	Likely Source of Contamination
Copper	2023	1.3	1.3	0.051	0	ppm	N	Erosion of natural deposits; Leaching from wood preservatives; Corrosion of household plumbing systems.

Note: Lead is not listed above because our samples for 2023 resulted in zero detection.

Total Organic Carbon
The percentage of Total Organic Carbon (TOC) removal was measured each month, and the system met all TOC removal requirements set by IEPA, unless a TOC violation is noted in the violation section.

Violations Table

Total Trihalomethanes (TTHM)
Some people who drink water containing trihalomethanes in excess of the MCL over many years may experience problems with their liver, kidneys, or central nervous systems, and may have an increased risk of getting cancer.
Violation Type	Violation Begin	Violation End	Violation Explanation
MCL, LRAA	10/01/2023	12/31/2023	Water samples showed that the amount of this contaminant in our drinking water was above its standard (called a maximum contaminant level and abbreviated MCL) for the period indicated

Total Trihalomethanes (TTHM)
Some people who drink water containing trihalomethanes in excess of the MCL over many years may experience problems with their liver, kidneys, or central nervous systems, and may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

cal for water quality concerns at the Macomb intakes is indicated in Figure 1. The critical area is intended to assist in emergency preparedness and contingency planning in the event of a release within this area. The critical area for the intake on the East Fork of the La Moine River is divided into three zones. Zone 1 consists of a quarter mile buffer on either side of the river, extending from a quarter mile downstream of the CWS surface water intake to twenty-five miles upstream (or the five-hour time of travel). Zone 2 is the 14-digit Hydraulic Unit Code (HUC) watershed (s) that contain Zone 1. Zone 3 is the 8-digit HUC watershed that contains Zone 2. The entire zone 3 is shown in figure 3. Figure 2 shows the location of the Macomb community water wells and the Minimum and Maximum Setback Zones associated with each well. In addition, the potential sources of contamination located near the wells are also displayed. Due to the confined nature of the wells and no history of detections, Illinois EPA considers these wells to not be susceptible to contamination.

Water Quality Test Results

The next several tables summarize contaminants detected in your drinking water supply. Here are a few definitions and scientific terms which will help you understand the information in the contaminant detection tables.

AvG: Regulatory compliance with some MCLs is based on running annual average of monthly samples.
Level 1 Assessment: A level 1 assessment is a study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.

Level 2 Assessment: A level 2 assessment is a very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred and/or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system on multiple occasions.

Maximum Contaminant Level or MCL: Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the Maximum Contaminant Level Goal as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal or MCLG: Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum residual disinfectant level or MRDL: Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level: The highest level of disinfectant allowed in drinking water.

Maximum residual disinfectant level goal or MRDLG: Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal: The level of disinfectant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs allow for a margin of safety.

mm: millirems per year (a measure of radiation absorbed by the body) ppb: micrograms per liter or parts per billion or one ounce in 7,350,000 gallons of water.

ppm: milligrams per liter or parts per million or one ounce in 7,350 gallons of water.
