

How we helped Derby QUAD toward "reel" health and safety results!

Who we helped

QUAD is the East Midlands' centre for visual art and independent cinema. QUAD is also the organiser of the FORMAT International Photography Festival and the Summer Nights outdoor film festival!

The Issue

QUAD had recently lost its NEBOSH Qualified responsible person and was in need of someone to act in this role until a suitable replacement was found. Their Facilities Officer needed support in managing Health and Safety for the organisation, along with other business critical tasks, and standards were slipping across the whole organisation.

The Solution

We worked with QUAD over a period of 12 months, giving the business's safety systems and practice an overhaul, implementing new processes for RAMS and COSHH and guidance for the Facilities Officer toward receiving a NEBOSH Qualification with Credit in Feb 2019. We also acted as responsible person, providing advisement to all levels of the organisation with a number of high profile installations and one off events/exhibitions.

Services used:

Consultancy, Training and RAMS, COSHH Assessments. Coaching

The Future

The Facilities Officer is now fully prepared to act as QUAD's responsible person, confident in managing Health and Safety within an SME and expanding their knowledge and paying it forward to other staff members. The processes set up by Kedleston Safety are still being used and everyone at QUAD is communicating better when it comes to Health and Safety in their daily practices.

"There has been a noticeable increase in staff confidence throughout Suzanne's time with us, which is down to her ability to communicate effectively and provide clear action points to work to!"
