

Documentation Solutions

Transcription services that save time and money by integrating with EHRs and other clinical repositories

Rather than navigating a complex and time-consuming EHR system, providers can see patients the way they always have and turn to common mobile devices to perform more traditional dictation.

EMRs and mobile dictation — a winning combination

Our mobile app, available for iOS and Android mobile devices, allows physicians to create documentation from anywhere using a WiFi network or cellular data connection. The already-efficient process of dictation is maximized by providing physicians with their schedule and allowing them to view their dictation and document templates and their patients' transcription history while they dictate.

Once a dictation is finished, the audio is securely transmitted to a trained medical professional. When editing is complete, the document can be reviewed, edited and electronically signed from a mobile device or at a workstation with internet access. An authenticated, high quality document can automatically be printed, faxed, or integrated directly into an EHR or clinical repository both as a narrative report and as a marked-up, sophisticated structured document helping to meet meaningful use.

Physicians can take full advantage of their EHR while complying with meaningful use and HIPAA regulations without suffering a productivity loss.

Maximize productivity and reduce costs by up to 50%

Print templates and our exclusive Qualified Text feature not only reduce costs by up to 50% but also decrease the time required to dictate.

The best solution

Our suite of applications together with our high quality transcription services offer the best solution for robust patient encounter documentation at a cost significantly less than traditional transcription.
