LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Readers,

Thank you for your time and dedication to the Michigan Lama Association.

My name is Madeline Krawciw and I am responsible for the Spring 2025 Newsletter. My journey with llamas began in 2013, and I continue to learn and grow as a owner and handler. I am a full-time masters student expected to graduate April of 2026.

I am forever grateful to the Michigan Lama Association and its' members for introducing me to showing llamas. I will continue to support the MLA, and I hope you enjoy the newsletter! Please feel free to email me any thoughts, concerns, and ideas for the future!

2024 Scholarship Recipients

Awardee: Alexandra Prince

Alexandra has been involved with llamas for 10 years. She began her journey with llamas in 2014 when she was 8 years old with her local 4-H program. She attended a few sanctioned shows while in 4-H, and she became an ALSA member in 2016 and an ILR member in 2018. She also became a member of HLAA, MLA, and ORVLA. She also enjoys participating in a variety of public relation events with her llamas including parades, visiting nursing homes, festivals, and church functions. She enjoys sharing her love and passion for her llamas with others.

Alexandra graduated from high school after the first semester of her senior year with a technical honors diploma and began taking a few classes at Ivy Tech Community College to get ahead on her college education. She is currently taking pre-requisite classes at Ivy Tech Community College, and she will be applying to several local radiology programs this year. She looks forward to continuing to show llamas while she is in college, and also into adulthood.

Awardee: Madeline Krawciw

Madeline has been involved with llamas since she was 11 years old, starting with a young male llama they still have today.

She graduated in April 2024 with her Bachelor's of Science in Psychology and Behavioral Neuroscience. During that time, she completed a honors thesis on llama cria weights. She went on to begin a Master's in Public Health (MPH) and is expected to graduate April of 2026

2025 Scholarship Information

2025 Scholarship Applications are due July 1st, 2025. All information is available on the website, <https://michiganllama.org/>

Please be prepared to provide letters of recommendations, academic transcripts, and answer a couple of essay questions.

Hillsdale Hobo Hootenanny

Highlights, 2025

We experienced an incredible turnout of 105 animals at this year's Hillsdale Hobo Hootenanny on April 12, 2025. We returned to our previous venue in Hillsdale, Michigan, and enjoyed a wonderful day filled with pleasant weather, great company, and excellent llamas. The judges included Katie Mazac (Halter), Mike Haumschild (Performance), and Joy Bishop (Performance).

Lamafest 2025

AUGUST 30-31, ADRIAN MICHIGAN

Important Updates for Lamafest This Year!

This year, there are significant changes for Lamafest. We will no longer be utilizing the Michigan State University Pavilion due to location costs. Instead, we will host at the Lenawee County Fairgrounds in Adrian, Michigan.

- We will still have vendors, so be sure to mark your calendars for exciting llama merchandise.
- We will also host another silent auction.

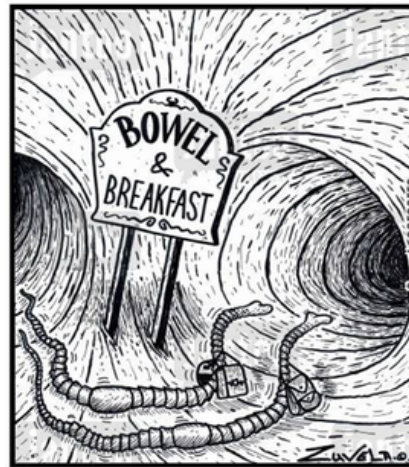

Stay tuned for more updates, and look out for form releases in the upcoming months. Judges should be finalized soon!

Prepare for the Spring Rise

Jessica Bain, DVM

Now that the temperature in Michigan is increasing and spring is around the corner, llamas, alpacas, and their owners are emerging from under the cover of barns, straw bedding and blankets. Another critter is emerging as well – intestinal parasites. Warm weather and moisture create the perfect environment for hatching of parasite eggs in manure piles and maturation of larvae to infective stages.

Camelids are notorious for hiding signs of disease until there is a significant problem. Screening our llamas and alpacas for signs of a high parasite burden is beneficial to identifying problems early.

One method of screening is called the Five Point Check. This involves checking five different areas on the camelid for potential signs of parasitism and only takes about one minute.

1) Eyes – perform a FAMACHA score. This test assesses the conjunctiva of the eye for signs of anemia by comparing the color to a FAMACHA score card. Haemonchus contortus or barberpole worm is often called “the silent killer” because it can cause anemia in camelids. Anemia can be the only sign of parasitism by H. contortus.

A FAMACHA score should be performed using the cover, push, pull, pop method. Simply pulling down the eyelid often shows a paler score than the true assessment would show. A score of 1 and 2 out of 5 is considered ideal. Anemia would be considered at a score of 4 or 5 out of 5. You can learn more about performing a FAMACHA score correctly at wormx.info

2) Jaw – assess the lower aspect of the jaw for a fluctuant to soft swelling. It would be symmetrical and often sits between the two jaw bones. This is an indicator of low protein. Protein helps retain fluid within the blood vessels. When parasites consume our animals' protein, it leads to pooling of fluid in gravity dependent places such as the lower jaw, brisket, and prepuce.

Prepare for the Spring Rise

3) Body – conduct a body condition score of your llama or alpaca. This is best assessed by placing your hand over the spine just behind the withers. The spine should create a 90 degree angle between your thumb and index finger. If it is wider, your animal is over-conditioned and if it is narrower, your animal is under-conditioned. An underconditioned animal may be suffering from parasitism.

4) Diarrhea – does your llama or alpaca have diarrhea? Normal camelid stool should be formed into individual pellets sometimes with a tip at one end. Diarrhea could range from clumped balls of pellets to soft cow-patties to watery stool.

5) Fleece – this can be more difficult to assess in camelids, but evidence of dull or brittle fiber, poor fiber regrowth after shearing or “wool break” where the fleece is lost at the level of the skin, could be evidence of parasitism.

Keep in mind that these indicators do not diagnose a parasite problem. For example, there are multiple conditions that can cause weight loss. If multiple points on the Five Point Check indicate that parasites may be a problem, then it would be wise to assess that animal further by having a fecal egg count performed.

In Michigan, it is recommended to screen your llamas and alpacas every 3-4 weeks during “ideal parasite weather,” or when it is warm and wet. Extreme heat and dry weather decrease survivability of parasites on your pastures. In addition, freezing temperatures destroy many of the eggs and larvae in manure packs. Consequently, parasite screening can be performed less frequently during these seasons.

The Shear Necessities: Picking the Perfect Llama Cut

Picking the Perfect Cut

Spring is here! With the temperatures increasing, shearing season is upon us in order to keep our camelids cool and comfortable. Every year we get the question “What kind of cut should my llama get?”

Barrel Cut*Also Known As: Mid Body Shear

Barrel cuts are common for younger animals and for animals that are being shown. It opens up that space around their belly to keep them cool, and gives them a 'cleaner' look. Barrel cuts also allow you to better accentuate the animal for show.

This is also a nice cut for older animals, as it opens up that belly area while leaving enough fiber for protection when the temperatures began to go down.

Open-Hip Cut Also Known As: Lion Cut

Open Hip cuts, also called a Lion Cut, is a common cut where you shear the mid section and down the llamas hips.

This is a great cut for show animals with heavy fiber and intact males.

Argentine Cut
Also Known As: Partial Body,
Open Shoulder

Barrel cuts are common for younger animals and for animals that are being shown. It opens up that space around their belly to keep them cool, and gives them a 'cleaner' look. Barrel cuts also allow you to better accentuate the animal for show.

This is also a nice cut for older animals, as it opens up that belly area while leaving enough fiber for protection when the temperatures began to go down.

Full Body Cut

Full body cuts are essential every 2-3 years in medium to heavy wool animals. Other fiber types need full body as well, but it is at the discretion of the owner based on the animal itself. Preventing hotspots is essential and this is a good way to do that.

This is also a nice cut for heavy wool animals for the summer that gives them a great deal of relief, especially pregnant females.
