

Mike Travis is Bethel's Aquaman as he outslicks the Enduro competition to win rain soaked 'Kickin' Corona 57'; rain halts the remaining racing action!

June 19th, 2021:

White Lake, NY: A beautiful day quickly turned into a rain-soaked evening which forced management to present the 2020 speedway championship awards ceremony during a soggy rain delay while enduro series competitors got their cars ready to race in the rain to compete in the 'Kicking Corona Assphalt 57'. About 100 die hard race fans stayed to watch the action filled race despite the damp soggy weather. The remainder of Ron Hill's Race Report Videography Cone Night was postponed including the highlighted Ron Welsch Memorial Street Stock race to a later date to be announced once decisions have been made.

Veteran racer Mike Travis proved he is just as good on a wet track as he led every lap in convincing fashion to win the Enduro main event. Many drivers experienced mishaps on the wet and wild track that appeared to have black ice on it at times with cars often spinning in an unexpected manner. While Travis navigated lapped traffic, there were several great battles for position behind him. At the checkers, it was all Travis easily winning over red hot Richard Smith, Vinny DeGraw, Tony Collinsworth, and Dan Curry to pick up his second enduro win of the season.
