Blockchain security

Security and data protection are important to us

Blockchain Technology

Veelive is based on Blockchain technology and is 99.9% completely tamper-proof. Each new block not only stores the data of the new transaction, but also contains the entire history of all transactions. Changes in the blockchain would therefore have to be made in many data blocks.

Security

In addition to the actual data, each block contains information for verifying the previous block. If a block in the blockchain is to be manipulated, all subsequent blocks must also be recreated, and this is almost impossible.

Data security

Please write your great title is here

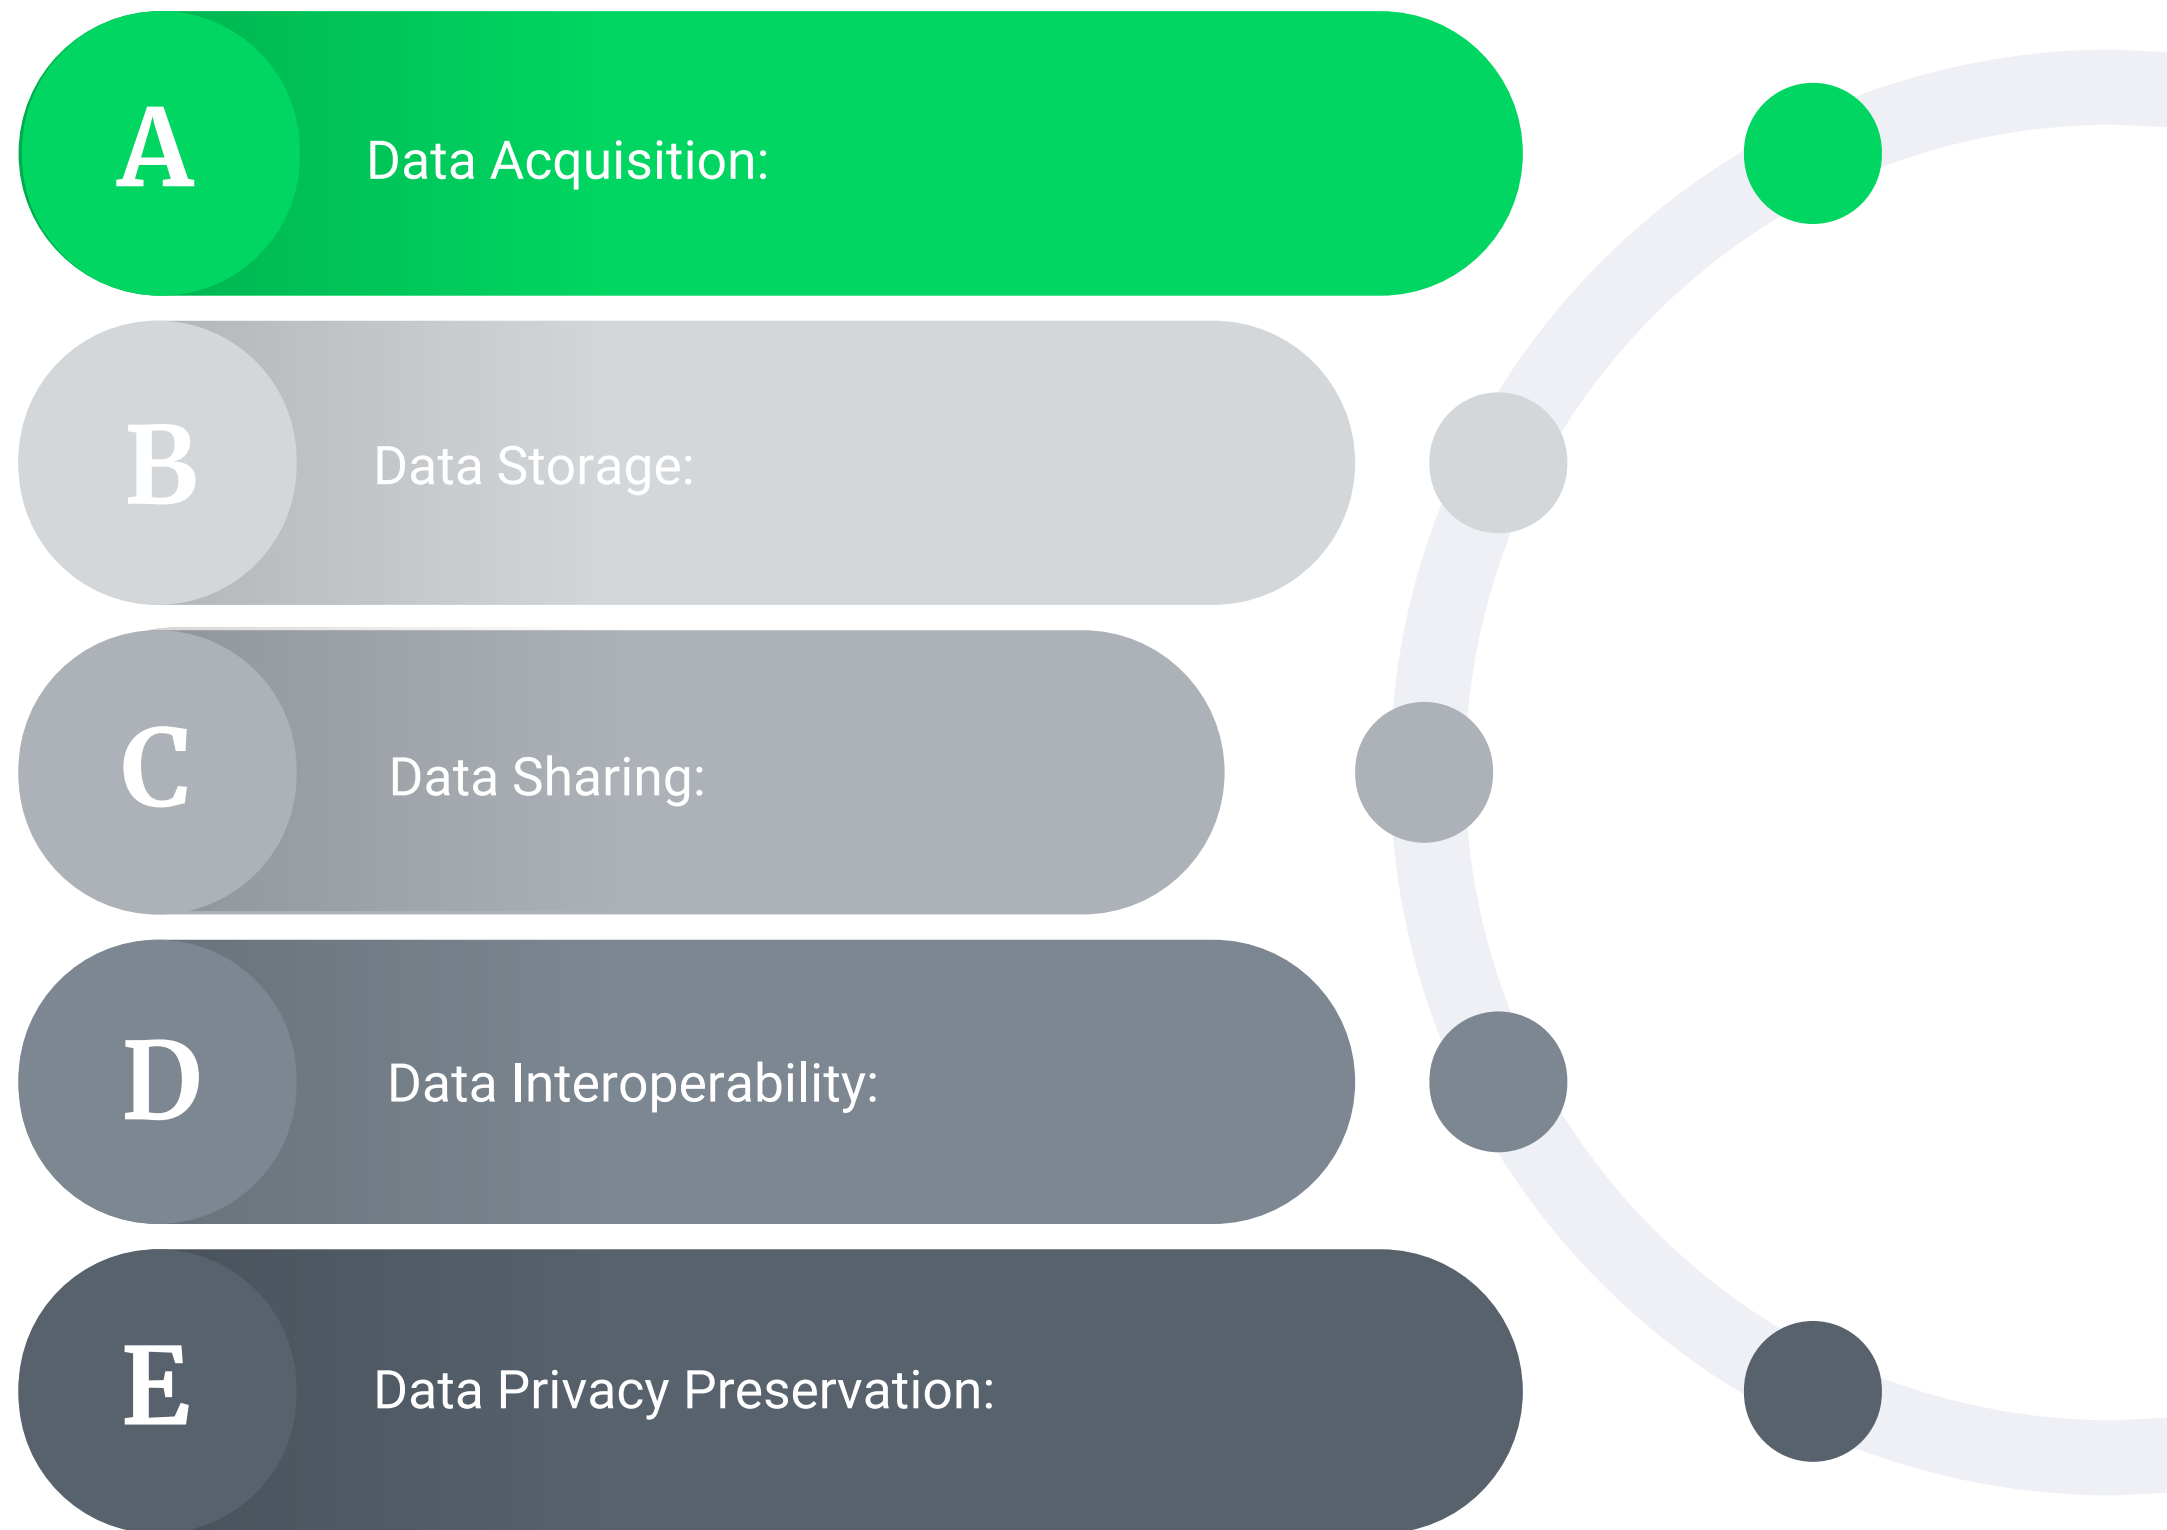

A. Data Acquisition: The metaverse relies heavily on data generated by users and devices. Blockchain enables secure and tamper-proof data collection methods, ensuring the integrity of the information.

C. Data Sharing: Blockchain facilitates secure peer-to-peer data sharing, eliminating the need for intermediaries. This ensures that users have control over their data.

D. Data Interoperability: The metaverse involves diverse platforms and technologies. Blockchain acts as a bridge, enabling interoperability between different systems and ensuring smooth data flow.

E. Data Privacy Preservation: Privacy is a critical concern in the metaverse. Blockchain's encryption and consensus mechanisms help protect user data, giving individuals greater control over their information.
