Railroad Square Art District

BY LILY BOYTON KAYE, OWNER,
RAILROAD SQUARE ART DISTRICT

A MURAL-COVERED HAVEN for creative entrepreneurship, Railroad Square Art District features Tallahassee's most unique local microbusinesses. The historic lumberyard warehouses, located between downtown and the universities, have gradually transformed over the decades into one of the funkier spots in town.

Take a relaxing stroll around "The Square," browsing small shops, thrift treasure troves, galleries, and an indescribable variety of unique finds, such as a cult cinema theater, kayak outfitter and vintage pinball arcade. Document your visit to one of Tallahassee's most Instagrammable locations with photos in front of the iconic "Greetings from Tallahassee" mural, the whimsical "Alice in Wonderland," or one of the many other colorful and surprising art pieces.

Dine or drink outside a real railroad caboose (the Crum Box Gastgarten), grab a refreshing beverage at Square Mug or Oh Lemonade!, explore African-fusion cuisine with Hali Africa, or enjoy the mural-splashed Art Garden of the Railroad Square Craft House, one of the city's largest open-air dining spots.

Railroad Square is best known for its First Friday Festival, Tallahassee's longest-running monthly cultural event. From 6–9 p.m. on the first Friday of each month (rain or shine), the Art District is at its busiest and most vibrant, a relaxed community gathering with music, food trucks and great opportunities to experience the most creative side of the city.

Each business has its own opening hours (some of which are limited). Check out the business directory at RailroadSquare.com, and learn more about the diversity of offerings on Facebook (@RailroadSquare) and Instagram (#RailroadSquare).

Huffington Post Travel Blog featured First Friday @ Railroad Square as one of the recommended art walks in Florida.

The pretty, rolling hills make outdoor recreation one of the area’s most popular and unexpected activities, and it sets us apart from anywhere else in Florida.

- » On two migratory flyways, Tallahassee is one of the top birding locations in the country.
- » The nine designated roads provide 78 miles of canopy roads, perfect for a scenic drive, are also favorites with cyclists, especially Centerville Road.

TAKE TO THE WATER WITH HARRY SMITH OUTDOORS

BY HARRY SMITH, OUTFITTER, GUIDE,
OWNER OF HARRY SMITH OUTDOORS

Having grown up in Tallahassee with the outdoors as my playground, exploring the area's 700 plus miles of trails, hiking, biking, fishing and kayaking became my way of life. The area's freshwater spring-fed rivers — the Wakulla, Wacissa and St. Marks — are easy to explore and offer some of the most diverse wildlife viewing in Florida.

Paddling trails also lead to secluded hiking trails offering otherworldly scenes of nature, like the quiet and serene Cathedral of Palms or the Leon Sinks trail in the Appalachian Forest, with its fairytale-like views providing a glimpse into "old Florida."

Those looking for a more social paddling experience enjoy Lake Bradford, where on the most southern portion of the lake lies the Florida State Reservation, or the "Rez." It's a popular spot to rent kayaks, canoes, paddleboards and even sailboats to explore the wonders of Lake Bradford. This is also the launching point for the Lake Bradford chain of lakes, including Lake Hiawatha and Lake Cascade. Lake Piney Z takes front and center stage to Lafayette Heritage Trail Park on Tallahassee's east side, where visitors can enjoy many outdoor activities, such as biking, fishing, running/walking and kayaking/canoeing without ever leaving the city. The opportunities are there if you have the desire!

Harry Smith is a Tallahassee native who grew up on the banks of Lake Talquin fishing, boating, hiking and camping. Those pastimes ignited a passion that carries on today. Now as an outfitter, guide and owner of Harry Smith Outdoors (HSmithOutdoors.com), he takes great joy in showing people the beauty that Tallahassee and the surrounding areas have to offer.

TOP 3 PLACES TO PADDLE

- » RIVER: The Wacissa, because all parts of it are outstanding. The upper headwaters section is easy to reach, beautiful, and full of wildlife.
- » SPRING: Garner Springs off the Wacissa River. It is reached by a narrow spring that runs about a third-of-a-mile long, where visitors often see wildlife — otters, baby alligators, barred owls, etc.
- » LAKE: Put in your canoe or kayak at Jack Vause Landing to explore the roughly 10,000-acre Lake Talquin.

BIRDING

BY LIZ SCHOLD, GREAT FLORIDA BIRDING AND WILDLIFE TRAIL COORDINATOR, PUBLIC ACCESS SERVICES OFFICE, FLORIDA FISH AND WILDLIFE CONSERVATION COMMISSION

Tallahassee lies in one of the most biologically diverse regions of the United States, making it a perfect destination to see incredible birds and wildlife. Whether you prefer a leisurely hike in a local park or an off-the-beaten-path adventure, there is abundant wildlife to see almost everywhere you look.

St. Marks National Wildlife Refuge is a must-visit for anyone who is birding in the Panhandle. A leisurely drive to the coast along Lighthouse Road will yield sightings of bald eagles, wading birds and flocks of winter ducks. The refuge has also seen many unexpected species over the years, with recent visitors including a vermilion flycatcher and an American flamingo! Visitors to Edward Ball Wakulla Springs State Park can take a guided boat tour to see black-crowned night herons, flocks of white ibis and even manatees in the cooler winter months. A drive along quiet wildflower-lined roads will take you to Apalachicola National Forest, one of the best places in the country to see the federally endangered red-cockaded woodpecker among the longleaf pines.

You don't have to travel far to see incredible wild sights — within county limits, you can visit Elinor Klapp-Phipps Park, Alfred B. Maclay Gardens State Park and Lafayette Heritage Trail Park. Explore miles of well-maintained trails as you look for migrating birds in spring and fall. Be sure not to overlook Lake Elberta Park; this small park just minutes from downtown boasts a bird list of nearly 200 species. For an in-town adventure that's off the beaten path, explore L. Kirk Edwards Wildlife and Environmental Area, where you can see Bachman's sparrows, wood storks and gopher tortoises.

Grab your binoculars and camera, put on your hiking boots and hit the trail — in Tallahassee, every day is a great day to go birding!

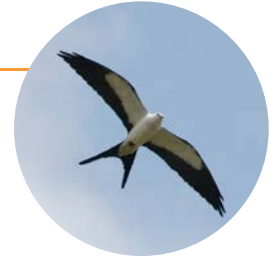

Nestled in the Red Hills region of the Florida Panhandle, Tallahassee is one of the most biologically diverse regions in the U.S. Here you can spot 372 of the 497 species of birds residing in or visiting Florida.

PRETTY BIRDS TO WATCH FOR

Recommendations from Liz*

Swallow-Tailed Kite

Swallow-tailed kites are undoubtedly one of the most beautiful birds in Florida, with their distinctive silhouette and graceful flight.

Purple Gallinule

The rich purple and green plumage of this marsh bird contrasts with their startlingly bright yellow legs and red and yellow bill.

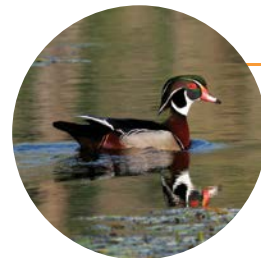

Roseate Spoonbill

With their vibrant pink plumage and namesake spoon-like bills, these distinctive birds are always fun to see.

Wood Duck

With their colorful plumage and distinctive crest, wood ducks are one of the most beautiful species of waterfowl around.

Great Egret

The showy feathers of the great egret in its breeding plumage are undoubtedly gorgeous. Once hunted nearly to extinction for their plumes, these birds are once again a common sight.

GAME ON! ↑

Florida State University

Florida A&M University

AN UNEXPECTED SPORTS TOWN

As a college town, the “sports town” label seems obvious because of the high-profile athletic programs at Florida State University, Florida A&M University and Tallahassee Community College.

The Florida State Seminoles compete at a championship level across all sports and offer some of the most iconic venues for fans to take in the action, while FAMU athletics joined the prestigious Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) in 2021 and continues to make its presence known to all rivals in all sports that the Rattlers will STRIKE, and STRIKE and STRIKE again!

But beyond those obvious college programs — there’s an unexpected layer of sports activity that runs throughout the year.

Leon County’s Apalachee Regional Park racks up acclaim as one of the nation’s finest venues for cross country running. It hosts the Florida High School Athletics Association championship meets for the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU), USA Track & Field (USATF) and most recently the NCAA 2021 Division I Championships, a first for the state.

The Tallahassee Soccer Club started as a dream and became a reality in 2019. Through the support of local fans, club members and music icon T-Pain (a Tallahassee native), the Battle Lions are a perennial powerhouse and bring exciting soccer action to the Capital City all summer long.

Home to two 24-hole disc-golf courses, with several new courses on the horizon, Tallahassee’s unique hilly landscape and century-old live oaks provide nature’s perfect backdrop for a round. This emerging sport offers players of all ages and skill levels a fun, healthy outdoor escape.

Listed as one of the top 100 disc golf courses in the world, the Tom Brown Park Disc Golf Course was rated Florida’s No. 1 course in 2021 by users of the UDisc App.

GOLFING

Capital City Country Club

BY JAY REVELL, GOLF SCRIBE

Florida has more golf courses than any other state in America, and its Capital City has lots to offer for those seeking affordable and interesting playing experiences. Despite a strong collection of exciting courses, Tallahassee still flies under the radar as a destination for those traveling to tee it up in the Sunshine State. Should you choose the Capital City for your next golf trip, here are some suggestions that could make the experience extra special.

Tallahassee's storied past lives on and off the course at the Capital City Country Club. Enjoy an afternoon stroll over Tallahassee's most historic golf course. Designed by World Golf Hall of Fame member A.W. Tillinghast and set over hilly terrain, Capital City offers some of the region's most memorable golf holes.

Located in the Southeast corner of the city, the Southwood Golf Club course and surrounding neighborhood were once all part of an expansive farm owned by 20th century industrialist Ed Ball. The course was designed by Masters champion Fred Couples and showcases the hills, live oaks and scenic vistas that Tallahassee is known for.

If you've got the itch for a few more holes, then go check out Jake Gaither Golf Course. As Tallahassee's only nine-hole course, Jake Gaither makes for a great way to add on a quick loop at the end of the day. The facility is named for legendary Florida A&M football coach Jake Gaither, who amassed one of the sport's all time winningest records.

Should weather interrupt your golf plans — or even if you simply want a good place to cool off and enjoy some indoor fun — check out Tallahassee's World of Beer location featuring the innovative Top Golf Swing Suite. Guests can enjoy the fairways of Pebble Beach Golf Links, the St. Andrews Old Course or many other famed courses when you reserve the Top Golf Swing Suite for a simulated playing experience.

By focusing on this vitality, we foster a strong business climate and support the overall growth of our community.”

– CRISTINA PAREDES, Director, Tallahassee-Leon County Office of Economic Vitality (OEV)

THE TALLAHASSEE-LEON COUNTY OFFICE OF ECONOMIC VITALITY HAS FORMED CONNECTIONS between academia, business, manufacturing, health care, research and government to yield an economic infrastructure with strong private sector job growth, a vibrant innovation and entrepreneurship scene and a community-wide commitment to enhancing our infrastructure in advance of demand.

MITCH NELSON

*Founder
DivvyUp*

“Tallahassee has a ton of positive attributes and reasons to grow a business — great cost of living, large labor force, it’s located near the top of the state and the laws for businesses are very favorable in Florida. We appreciate the support of FSU, Domi Station and OEV as we continue to grow our business here.”

EDUARDO GONZALEZ LOUMIET

*Chief Executive Officer
Ruvos*

“For over 17 years, Ruvos has called Tallahassee home. The local community has been very supportive as we continue to grow and make an impact in public health. From other technology companies to local nonprofits and government entities, there is a feeling that we are all in this together — reminding folks across the nation that Tallahassee is open for business and we are just beginning to ‘launch Tallahassee’ to a bright future for all.”

LAURA JOHNSON

*Owner
Coton Colors*

“The support that we received in Tallahassee, especially in the early days, was a major contributor to our success,” said Johnson. “There is such a sense of community and hospitality here. People opened their homes to me to hold trunk shows before we had our first studio storefront. We opened our first storefront because people were knocking on our studio doors, wanting to take a peek and buy our products. In that way, Tallahassee has always been my test market — enthusiastically supporting the business and giving me honest feedback. When we launched our cookbook, so many people contributed to the recipes, testing and storytelling.”

ANA MELENDEZ

*Chief Executive Officer
A&E Wholesale*

“Tallahassee encompasses many seasonal facets — from a myriad of sports events to the legislative sessions, from the absolutely breathtaking recreational parks to the intricate vegetation — this city is vibrant with resources. There are many hidden gems in the city and its surrounding areas, and that’s why I love doing business in the Capital City. Behind all of these benefits are the people that make everything come to life. It is a community with extremely caring and giving people that fill our neighborhoods and businesses with sustenance and hope for a better tomorrow.”

HEIDI OTWAY

*President
SalterMitchell PR*

“Tallahassee has all the ingredients that fuel the success and longevity of SalterMitchell PR. We work with and have connections to state and local government agencies, associations representing industries that drive the state economy, and businesses with regional, statewide, national and international reach. Let’s not forget our top universities. We attract and retain clients because of our access to these public and private organizations that are based here. As communications advisors, influencers and connectors, it’s great to live and work in the Capital City of the nation’s third most populous state.”

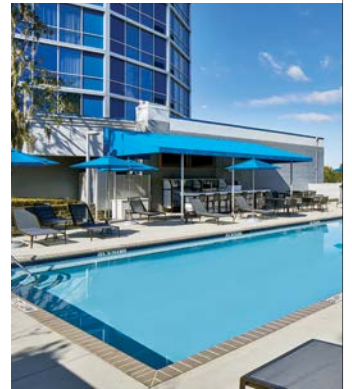

RICARDO SCHNEIDER

*President
Danfoss Turbocor*

“We are highly dependent on magnetic science to enhance and further develop our technology,” said Ricardo Schneider, president of Danfoss Turbocor, “and since we’ve been here, OEV established the Magnetics Task Force to promote Tallahassee as a critical location globally in the world of magnetics. There is no other place where you can find such a concentration of knowledge, talent, research laboratories and companies all doing magnetic science.”

THE DOWNTOWN TALLAHASSEE HERITAGE TRAIL is the first in a series of Heritage Trails. Explore VisitTallahassee.com/HeritageTrails for more information.

Stops along the way include 13 historically significant sites in downtown Tallahassee, from the Florida Historic Capitol Museum to the Civil Rights Heritage Walk, which commemorates more than 50 foot soldiers. You can learn about eras unique to our state at the Museum of Florida History, enjoy beautiful scenery at Cascades Park, take a brief walk to Smokey Hollow Historic District, and then stroll up the street to the John G. Riley Center and Museum. From there, visit the “House that Rhymes,” where the Emancipation Proclamation was first read at the Knott House. You can cool off with a drink at the historic Bar 1903. Continue down the Chain of Parks while viewing First Presbyterian Church, which was constructed in 1838, then to the Old City Cemetery — a final resting place for men and women who contributed to the Development of Tallahassee and state of Florida.

Additional sites to visit include the Soul Voices: Frenchtown Heritage Trail and the Grove Museum near the Governor’s Mansion.

The Heritage Trail was developed in partnership with Leon County, The Tallahassee Downtown Improvement Authority, John G. Riley House Museum, City of Tallahassee, Florida Department of State, the Tallahassee Historical Society, and local community leaders.

Day Trips from Florida's Capital City

EXPLORE THE WELCOMING COMMUNITIES surrounding Tallahassee with these pretty and unexpected day trips during your extended stay in the Capital City.

Towering forests, white sand beaches, three 18th century lighthouses and small town smiles offer compelling reasons for diverting from the interstate and enjoying a drive down the Big Bend Scenic Byway.

Its 220 miles capture some of the most unique aspects of Florida and is a welcome diversion from interstate highway travel. Take your pick — the Forest Trail or Coastal Trail — for completely different experiences. Travel both for the full flavor of “Old Florida.”

The quaint fishing village of St. Marks is located in Wakulla County, about 20 miles south of Tallahassee, and is home to the St. Marks National Wildlife Refuge and one of the oldest lighthouses in Florida.

The Red Hills Region encompasses more than 300,000 acres between Tallahassee and Thomasville, Georgia, and is marked by rolling hills and red clay soils. A wealth of historic resources and natural beauty define the very distinctive landscape. The region's rich soil, suitable climate and plentiful game made it attractive to the multiple cultures that shaped its history over centuries.

The picturesque town of Thomasville lies just across the Georgia state line to the northeast of Tallahassee. Among the quaint shops that line the brick-paved streets, find farm-fresh artisanal cheeses at Sweet Grass Dairy Cheese Shop and exquisite made-from-scratch cuisine at Jonah's Fish & Grits. Complete the day with a stop at Pebble Hill Plantation, a prime example of a 20th century sporting estate with an expansive collection of art and historical items.

The Monticello Opera House is a historic, two-story facility, built in 1890, and it includes a 311-seat Historic Theater on the second floor plus a picturesque Garden Courtyard area. The theater continues to produce year-round entertainment, including a variety of concerts, plays, musicals, dinner theater and children's theater.

Explore the otherworldly depths of the Florida Caverns in Marianna, located an hour east of Tallahassee. Experience the cool air, sound of dripping water, and a visual array of mystifying stalactites, stalagmites, flowstones and draperies that are found at Florida Caverns State Park.

TAIL WAGGING Tallahassee

Tallahassee welcomes four-legged family members with open paws. Pet-friendly accommodations, parks, trails and restaurants make Tallahassee a favorite for those travelling with dogs.

Sit. Stay. Lay Down.

Tallahassee offers more than 25 pet-friendly hotels as well as plenty of home-share options that offer yards or nearby parks where dogs can roam. Look for the  in the hotel listings on pages 80–81.

Wanna Go for a Walk?

With so many parks and 700-plus miles of trails, Tallahassee is a pet paradise. Favorite dog parks include Bradfordville Dog Park, Tom Brown Park, All Saints District, Cascades Park and the Downtown Chain of Parks.

Chow Down

Al fresco dining is enjoyable for all, especially during Tallahassee's spring and fall, and many of the area restaurants and bars are equipped with outdoor seating and love hosting pets and their people. Find dining for you and your pup at VisitTallahassee.com.

Foxy Roxy takes a moment to admire the custom artwork by local artists in the lobby of the Hyatt House – Tallahassee Capitol – University, located at Railroad Square Art District.

ALOFT

Adopt a Furry Friend While Visiting (or at least give and get some puppy love during your stay)

Aloft Tallahassee Downtown put its dog-friendly mantra into action by partnering with the Leon County Humane Society (LCHS) to now host a dog foster/adoption program at the hotel. One lucky shelter pup resides in the lobby, in a dog-house that is a custom built, smaller replica of the hotel. Hotel guests are encouraged to interact with the foster pup, take them for a walk and — ultimately — adopt if you are smitten.
