RAECHE

(b. 1981, Manila, Philippines)

Dancing in the Rain Series (2025)

Acrylic on Acrypoly (Acrylic polyglass) / Acrylic on Jusi fabric

RAECHE's art is a vibrant expression of life, emotion, and movement, an ongoing visual journey rooted in passion. Her artistic path began in childhood, where she found joy in filling notebooks with doodles. Though she pursued a degree in Interior Design, the pull of painting remained strong. Guided by mentors and fueled by perseverance, she transitioned into the art world, hosting her first solo exhibit at Ricco Renzo Gallery in 2008. In 2017, Raeche fully embraced her calling, becoming a full-time artist.

Her signature style fluid expressionism is characterized by dynamic lines, radiant hues, and a deep sensitivity to fleeting moments. Each piece is a dialogue with the canvas, where colors move freely and emotions take form. "Painting is my bliss," she reflects, capturing the essence of her intimate, intuitive process.

In her latest series, Dancing in the Rain, Raeche transforms rainy days into vibrant playgrounds of color and joy. Young figures leap, twirl, and splash through puddles under bright umbrellas, embodying courage and delight in the face of uncertainty. Painted on acrypoly and on jusi fabric, the translucent surfaces enhance the sense of motion and light, with iridescent tones that shift with the viewer's perspective, mirroring the ephemeral beauty of childhood memories.

Raeche invites us to rediscover it as a source of magic, freedom, and grace. For her, rain is not just water, it is blessings overpouring, a symbol of renewal and abundance. Her work evokes nostalgia and wonder, reminding us to embrace life's unpredictability with the lighthearted spirit of a child and to always find a reason to dance in the rain.
