Here is a bio on the investor we are meeting on Wednesday. Former legislator, farms thousands of acres and has co-founded several value-add businesses in N Dakota. His wife was Chair of that state's Republican Party for many years. Wealthy and well connected. A real gentleman according to his i-banker connection.

Doug – Thank you again for your support. Latest word from my Walmart US contact is they are preparing to sign, going through the last steps of their internal process to paper the file. There is a conference call with the Seattle investor, the feedlot principals, and me next Monday. Most of our team is attending a meeting with the North Dakota investor in Scottsdale a week from tomorrow. Nothing from our Portland prospective investor yet this week. Please incorporate the JBS specification by reference as we cannot violate their copyright by copying their information to our own specification. I hope this information is helpful. If you need further clarification, please contact me. We look forward to working with you and Walmart China.

Hi Yoshi,

Per discussion with team, we are OK with the price of Flank and Shank and plan to import via third party(domestic importer). Our category team understand that we could get beef from supplier 9 months later after cattle grow up.

We need the specification from supplier to understand the primal cuts. It will be great if the supplier could provide the similar specification like attached. The Specification version from JBS (see attachment) will be another option as well. Will make the final decision after get the specification of primal cut.

Thanks and Best Regards

We could do it that way one time if his bank can accept international wires. He must be careful to send me the exact information as the transfer once made cannot be undone and a mistake would be costly to them. I would prefer not to be in the middle of this transfer process after that one time. Depending upon when I get the latest check he sent, I may be able to do it as soon as Monday for the total amount of the one thousand plus the three thousand. Otherwise, it will have to wait until next Friday after I return from Los Angeles and Phoenix.

Today's meeting did not occur due to a logistical snafu on our Scottsdale i-bankers part. We did meet with the PO financing company – that meeting went well. We will be rescheduling the Scottsdale meeting sometime in the next two weeks. Jon, Bruce and I enjoyed breakfast and lunch together – not a total waste of time and we will accomplish our objective of sorting out the Scottsdale i-bankers investor prospects in the next couple of weeks.

Walmart is looking to us to provide a more detailed specification on our products so there is some work left to be done in advance of contract signing.

Dennis

I enjoyed the day. It was good to finally meet in person. I think the snafu will motivate the I bankers to help us out.

Jon – Nice to finally meet you. I enjoyed our conversation – you’ll fit right in with the rest of our quite professional and personable team. Sorry we were not able to accomplish what we set out to do but the day was not a waste in any case.

Dennis

At first glance the Alltech program looks advantageous. It looks like close to conventional performance in an antibiotic free or NHTC program. The program appears to be based on a good organic mineral program. Most traditional mineral programs are inorganic. The mineral program would be very low volume or a small percentage of the total diet. The typical vitamin/mineral package is included in the protein supplement.

This program may be very simple to implement. Hopefully I can get cost data soon. If the cost is reasonable the improved cattle feeding performance should improve Cost of Gain.

Thanks

Jon

Bruce. Thanks for taking the time today to meet with us and for your logistics support. I am asking Jon to look at this and see if there is any way we can work together with Alltech. I am skeptical due to logistics and cost of feed issues but we should take a look.

Dennis

Dennis,

I have pretty good contacts with Alltech. Let me know if you see anything we could benefit from.

They're privately owned, nimble and innovative.

Thanks, Dean. We are waiting on a second appointment attempt with the North Dakota investor and on a site visit with the Seattle investor. No word this past week on the Portland investor. Walmart has decided to take a better cut of beef for their largest quantity item (400 tons). If this holds, contract value will go up from $2.4 million to $6.5 million, should be good news. Contract not yet signed though. We have purchase order financing and product liability insurance lined up so we can start this in January if things work out on the contract side soon enough.

We are holding off on veg to focus on beef for now. I have a veg sales person ready as soon as beef has some cash flow to spare so we can afford to bring him on full time. Has excellent organic contacts from prior work in the space for Wholesome Farms. Currently working in El Paso but will relocate to Phoenix when we are ready. Have told him we might expect to start in summer, but with your connection and some luck on our end with financing the beef operation, could be sooner.

Dennis

Dennis,

Sounds like you are making progress on the meat side, but the virtual banker failed you?

Also produce, there is a facility I am working with near La Crosse WI, large, all aquaponics, will be organic within a month or so.

They are the largest enclosed year round grower in the world 123,000 sq. ft. with the ability to grow 1.8 M pounds of produce.

All cold fresh water fish being used to fertilize same. 40,000 sq. ft. steel fish house tanks 160,000 pounds of fresh fish, processed on site, also available.

Any produce contact you have as Winnett we could get started at least in the Midwest with a decent amount of year round items.
